Report Finns Make Peace Offer to Russia

Ralston Announces:

Army to Draw 60,000 Men From Pool During 1944-45; 48,000 to Serve Anywhere

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Defence Minister Ralston said yesterday in the Commons that the Canadian army proposes to draw 60,000 men from the manpower pool during the fiscal year 1944-45—48,000 of them for service anywhere.

Sees No Collapse

Ralston Warns Nazis' Power Is Still Great

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Defence Minister Ralston said yesterday in the Commons there was little evidence that German military power has decreased or that Japanese troops have lost their willingness to die to hold the outposts protecting their home base.

It is wrong, he said, to believe the collapse of Hitler's Germany is just around the corner. Germany dominated Europe and could draw on European resources. If all the resources of the United Nations were pooled there would be an advantage over Germany in the European theatre.

RUSSIA BIG AID

"But if it were not for the enormous sacrifices of our Russian ally, who pays the heaviest and most significant costs, the odds would be roughly four or five to one against us, and these odds would be more unfavorable because of the network of fortifications the Germans have prepared."

Russian successes and the tremendous Allied air raids on Germany.

Canadians Rout Large Nazi Force

ALLIED FIELD HEADQUARTERS, Italy, Feb. 15.—The City of Windsor Spitfire squadron of the R.C.A.F. damaged at least five enemy planes in a spectacular battle over the Anzio bridgehead yesterday in which nine Canadian planes tackled about 35 German craft.

The Canadians, flying in two small formations headed by Squadron Leader Albert Houle of Massey, Ont., and Flt-Lt. Henley Everard of Timmins, Ont., surprised a large formation of Focke Wulfs and Messerschmitts preparing to attack Allied shipping and troops at Anzio.

Both Canadian formations roared into the attack while troops on the ground gazed spellbound and fearful at what looked like an impending disaster for the attacking craft. But in spite of their great superiority, the Germans went on the defensive and after a brief battle turned and headed north.

New U.S. Thrust Seen in Pacific

By WILLIAM F. TYREE
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin. Copyright, 1944, by British United Press.

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., Feb. 15.—Preliminary reports today indicated that Eniwetok atoll, next major Japanese base on the Central Pacific route to Truk and Tokyo, was blasted into uselessness last week-end in one of the most prolonged assaults ever made by American carrier-based planes.

(Naval experts in Washington believed that the attacks foreshadowed an imminent American invasion thrust against Eniwetok.)

At the same time, the Japanese made their first raids in the Central Pacific since the invasion of the Marshalls, sending a small force against Roi Island, site of an American airfield at the northeast corner of Kwajalein atoll, Saturday night. Damage and casualties were described as moderate.

Gen. McNaughton Goes to Kingston

SEIGNIOY CLUB, Que., Feb. 15.—(CP)—Lt-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former commander of the Canadian Army overseas, left here yesterday for Kingston, Ont., where he has rented an apartment.

Back in Canada

Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London, arrived in Ottawa this afternoon after arriving from overseas and declared that Canada's soldiers, sailors and airmen were in "top form" and ready for any task that may be assigned them in the forthcoming invasion of Europe. ### Nazi Torpedo Boats, Anti-Aircraft Ship Damaged in Battle

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin. Copyright, 1944, by British United Press.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Five German torpedo boats and an anti-aircraft ship were damaged in a battle with light British warships off the coast of Holland last night, the admiralty announced today.

The British force, all light coastal units, returned safely to port and suffered only slight casualties and superficial damage, the admiralty said.

World Labor Meet Delegates Named

Discuss Further Prisoner Exchange

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Count Folke Bernadotte, vice-president of the Swedish Red Cross, has arrived in Britain to discuss a further possible exchange of British and German war prisoners. He supervised technical arrangements for the exchange last October.

By ERNEST AGNEW

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Swedish dispatches today said Finland had sent peace proposals to Russia and was awaiting a reply, while an unofficial but qualified London diplomatic source said Russia already had intimated willingness to adhere to the 1940 Karelian Isthmus frontier and forego her lease on the Hangö naval base.

(The Finnish leader Juhani Kusti Paasikivi has conferred with the Russian minister to Sweden, Finnish legation source in Stockholm said today.)

In listing the intimated Russian terms, the London diplomatic source said Russia wanted the Finnish Arctic port of Petsamo and as a minimum would demand "elimination or liquidation" of the seven German divisions now in Finland and the right to use any Finnish bases the Soviets might need for future operations against the Germans.

RUSSIA'S DEMANDS

Amid a vast amount of unofficial speculation in the London press on the possible peace terms between Finland and Russia, the News Chronicle said in a Stockholm dispatch that Russia's demands had been "intimated unofficially" as requiring unconditional surrender by the Finns, and Soviet occupation of Finland's chief cities and railway centres.

All Finnish air and sea bases to be placed at Russia's disposal forthwith, Finnish forces to be disbanded and to yield all arms and equipment, Finland to guarantee that German troops now in northern Finland do not escape, and slight frontier rectifications in the regions of Salla and southeastern Karelia, with the 1940 frontier otherwise unchanged.

ACCEPT 1940 BOUNDARY

Walter Farr, Stockholm correspondent of the Daily Mail, also reported Russia would stick to the boundary of 1940, and the loss of Karelia and the Karelian Isthmus and northeast Finland in the peace settlement of March, 1940.

Nazis Reported Using "X-Plan" In Finn Crisis

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(CP)—The Norwegian government in London said yesterday that developments to Finland have led Germany to "pull into effect the first part of 'X-plan' which provides for Norway's eventual evacuation."

Under the plan, the statement continued, Vidkun Quisling and his followers and strong forces of the Gestapo would be left to keep Norway subjugated, with the Quisling supporters responsible for the government.

It charged the Gestapo with having begun a campaign of terror with mass arrests during the past week in coastal towns.

Five hundred Gestapo men arrived recently at Oslo and steps are being taken to incorporate Quisling's storm troops and Elite Guard into the Gestapo machine, the statement said.

Weather Is Cold East of Alberta

WINNIPEG, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Ear muffs were the vogue throughout Manitoba and Saskatchewan today as temperatures skidded sharply during the night to sub-zero levels.

Brandon, Man., with 32 below was listed as the coldest spot on the prairies, while Minnedosa, Man., and Regina were right behind with minus 30. A low of 25 below zero was recorded in Winnipeg early this morning and 2 below at Saskatoon, Prince Albert and Moose Jaw.

Temperatures were more moderate in Alberta with Cowley the low point at 12 below. Milder weather is forecast.

British Submarine Returns to Base

The equivalent of 20 mills, at the current tax levy, was paid into the city treasury by Edmonton's public utilities during the 12-month period ended Dec. 31, according to a statement issued Tuesday by A. A. Campbell, city controller. This statement is an interim report on the utility earnings and is subject to slight changes, Mr. Campbell stated.

Total revenue in taxes and surpluses paid by the utilities during 1943 amounted to $1,110,811.75 compared with $1,089,785.63 for 1942, an increase of $21,026.12.

Gross revenue for the five utilities for 1943 amounted to $6,617,383.95 compared with $5,657,882.05 for 1942, an increase of $959,501.90, while gross expenditures showed an increase of $421,581.43. Total gross expenditures in 1943 was $3,520,041.46 against $3,098,420.03 in 1942.

Capital charges for the 12 months of 1943 amounted to $632,516.74 compared with $636,262.73, a decrease of $3,745.99, while taxes paid in 1943 amounted to $664,269.35 against $630,545.34 for the year previous, an increase of $33,724.01.

An increase of $520,641 is recorded in 1943 in the amount set aside in renewal reserve account compared with 1942. The total of reserves set aside in 1943 was $1,354,054 against $833,413 in 1942.

The net surplus on operation in 1943 was $446,542.40 compared with $459,240.29 in 1942, a decrease of $12,697.89. One of the highlights of the report is the conversion of a street railway operating deficit of $17,563.87 in 1942 into an operating surplus of $26,662.08 in 1943.

Pattullo Blames East "Interests" For Yukon Loss

VICTORIA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—T. D. Pattullo (L-Prince Rupert) told the British Columbia legislature yesterday that Eastern Canada interests and opponents in B.C. had blocked attempts made while he was premier to have this province annex the Yukon Territory and part of the Mackenzie River basin.

"Now Edmonton has the jump on Vancouver," he said while speaking in the Throne Speech debate, "and the government will have to dig down deeply for a road." The Alaska road would benefit Alberta.

Leaders Confer

See Armistice In Discussion Of McNaughton

By E. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—An eight-man conference of key leaders of parliament, held in the prime minister's office this morning, is believed to have agreed on an armistice in public discussion of the General McNaughton case and army policy as it affects the overseas army.

At the invitation of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, the following attended a private conference in his office at 10:30 a.m.: Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader; M. J. Coldwell, national leader of C.C.F.; John Blackmore, leader of New Democracy party; Grote Stirling, M.P., and three defence ministers, J. L. Ralston, C. G. Power and Angus Macdonald.

The conference is believed to have studied all documents relating to the retirement of General McNaughton as commander of the 1st Canadian Army. These documents, in addition to medical certificates already revealed in parliament would include, it is believed, reports from the British war.

Control Clamped On Bay of Biscay

By PHIL AULT
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin. Copyright, 1944, by British United Press.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Royal Navy clamped a tight pre-invasion control on shipping in the Bay of Biscay today, declaring 150,000 square miles of water to be dangerous and asserting that any vessel entering them without permission does so at its own risk.

The measure announced by the Admiralty was designed to prevent potentially adverse observation and to increase anti-submarine measures in the vast expanse of sea lying in the elbow of the French and Spanish coastline—the primary Atlantic approach to western Europe.

The proclamation almost doubled the waters lying off Britain designated as dangerous to shipping, and served as a warning to dilatory neutrals interested in Atlantic shipping.

A considerable part of the 150,000 square miles bounded roughly by Spain, France and British waters undoubtedly will be mined.

Nazi Press Chief Resigns Post Due To Exaggerations

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A Zurich dispatch to the Swedish newspaper Morgon Tidningen said today Maj-Gen. Von Wedel, press chief of the German high command, had asked to be relieved of his task of writing communiqués because German reports of air raids against London were exaggerated.

Attempt to Smash Fifth Army Wedge Is "Costly Failure"

By ROBERT V. VERMILLION
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin. Copyright, 1944, by British United Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, Feb. 15.—More than 200 American bombers, spearheaded by a great force of Flying Fortresses, blasted the ancient Benedictine monastery of Monte Cassino today and big siege guns of the 5th Army joined in with a devastating artillery barrage that was believed to have smashed the powerful German defences inside the shrine and on the surrounding mountain slopes.

Simultaneously, an Allied headquarters spokesman said flatly that the massive German attempt to break the 5th Army beachhead below Rome had ended "in a costly failure" for the Nazis.

Towers Reveals:

Bank of Canada Profits Close to $16,000,000.00

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Graham F. Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, said today in the bank's annual statement that while the Dominion cannot go on indefinitely piling up big increases in the public debt without an intolerable straining of the national economy, debt increases sufficient to look after war and post-war readjustment needs can be handled without embarrassment.

The bank reported net profits for 1943, after providing for contingencies, of $15,911,478, compared with $6,872,478 in 1942. Last year's profits went to the federal treasury except $1,568,647 added to the bank's rest fund. Increased profits were largely due to larger holdings of government securities.

Warships Shell Germans at Will From Offshore

By EDWARD KENNEDY
ALGIERS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Naval units are participating in the fighting on the Anzio beachhead almost as effectively as if they could float over the battlefield. Warships steam just off shore, opening up on enemy objectives with their big guns when and where requested by the army.

Six-inch, long-range guns of cruisers engaged in this work can reach all parts of the present German front line around the beachhead and many vital communication, assembly and supply points, behind the German lines.

Canadian Corps Troops Fighting AS A SINGLE UNIT

By DOUGLAS AMARON
ITALY, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Formations of the Canadian Corps, until recently serving at opposite ends of the British 8th Army front in Italy, now are fighting side-by-side under command of Lt-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar. For the first time, the Canadian Corps is fighting as a corps.

While fighting in the Orsogna area, Canadian troops served under British command.

U.S. Planes Sink 10,400-Ton Liner Near Indo-China

CHUNGKING, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Pilots of the United States Army Air Force, ranging over targets in the French Indo-China area, have sunk or damaged 22,000 tons of Japanese shipping, including one 10,400-ton transport, a communiqué announced today.

Intercepting 25 enemy fighters Feb. 12 on their way to attack a forward American base, they shot down seven, probably destroyed seven, and damaged one. Two Allied craft were lost, but their pilots were saved.

American Planes Operating at Will In Marshalls Area

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Knox reported at a press conference today American carrier and land-based planes are "operating at will" in the Marshall Islands area of the Pacific and are carrying out attacks on islands between the Marshalls and Truk, major Japanese naval base in the south Pacific. He said islands in the eastern group of the Marshalls, cut off from supplies by American occupation of Kwajalein, and their garrisons may face starvation.

Allied Bombers Hit Monastery Held by Nazis

lery, and Allied guns laid a barrage down upon the monastery and enemy hillcrest positions.

NO OPPOSITION

The raiders met no anti-aircraft fire or fighter opposition and completed their mission without loss. While smoke clouds still were billowing 1,500 feet into the air over the enemy stronghold, Allied artillery enplaned in the surrounding hills opened a heavy barrage on the monastery.

The aerial and artillery barrage, which threatened to reduce the 1,415-year-old shrine to ruins, came after a warning from the Allied high command that the bloody stalemate at the assault would be broken at all costs.

Thousands of leaflets showered into the monastery yesterday warned the Benedictine monks and any civilians there to flee immediately. Headquarters spokesmen said the monastery now is regarded as an ordinary military target, since the Germans have ruthlessly mounted guns and placed troops inside its walls, and they pointed out that the bomber crews in today's attack included the usual proportion of Catholic personnel.

The Axis-controlled Rome radio denied today that German troops were inside the buildings and asserted that American artillery "already has reduced the famous monastery to a heap of ruins."

GREAT AIR OFFENSIVE

Meanwhile, there was every indication that one of the greatest Allied aerial offensives since Salerno was underway all along the 5th Army front.

R.A.F. and Canadian Wellington bombers gave the Germans on the Anzio beachhead a frightful, 10-hour bombing last night, heaping giant bomb-busters and anti-personnel bombs on their front positions and supply roads in the area from 8:30 p.m. to dawn.

And throughout this morning, the skies over Western Italy echoed to the thunder of British and American planes swarming up to resume the attack.

The bombing of the monastery followed a series of devastating raids yesterday on six key railroad centres in northern and central Italy through which the Nazis had been pouring troops and supplies to their hard-pressed front lines.

GIVE BEACHHEAD AID

Simultaneously, Allied fighters and fighter-bombers raced in over the embattled Anzio beachhead to bomb and machine-gun the Nazi defences, road lines and supply dumps.

While the air war blazed furiously, savage street fighting was reported continuing inside shell-pocked Cassino, where desperate German troops held out stubbornly in the southern part of the town under incessant attack by tanks and infantrymen.

The Allied communique gave no details on the progress of the battle, but it appeared certain that the long struggle for Cassino was rapidly nearing a showdown.

On the 5th Army's beachhead below Rome, relative quiet prevailed for the third straight day and front reports indicated that the Germans had lost their first major attempt to drive the Allied invaders back into the sea.

An estimated nine German divisions were believed committed to the beachhead battle, but the crushing weight of Allied air power and the grim stand of the British and American troops appeared to have halted the Nazis in their tracks.

On the British 8th Army's Adriatic front, the communique said, Allied patrols probed aggressively into the enemy lines throughout yesterday.

Germans Attempt To Bolster Morale Of Men in West

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt, Nazi anti-invasion commander, has ordered an intensive propaganda campaign to overcome sagging morale of German troops in western Europe as a result of German defeats on the Russian front, the Moscow radio said last night. The English-language broadcast to Europe, reported by the Federal Communications Commission, said that "large numbers of experienced propagandists from Berlin and Munich" had been sent to the area.

Sabotage Reported In 21 Dallas Plants

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Orville W. Erringer, area director for the war manpower commission, said yesterday 21 Dallas industrial plants had reported cases of sabotage by employees seeking to be discharged so they could take other jobs. The situation, he said, has reached such a stage that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been asked to aid. "The problem is becoming a major one in many war plants," Erringer said.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

In the South Pacific Australian and U.S. troops have joined forces 14 miles south of Saidor, which is located on the accompanying map of New Guinea. That gives the Allies control of another long stretch of coast up to a point 10 miles west of Saidor. On the map the black areas are held by the Allies. One Australian force is in the Ramu valley, about 16 miles south of Bogadjim.

There are some indications that the Japanese are withdrawing from Madang. The Allies now hold the entire Huon peninsula opposite New Britain and Long Island, which also is held by them. When Madang is occupied they will be ready for a move in force against New Britain. They already hold Arawe and the Cape Gloucester areas. Allied planes have bombed Wewak, west of Madang, and Kavieng on New Ireland.

meeting of shareholders but the annual report was passed at the last meeting of the bank's directors, Feb. 7.

The bank's note circulation at Dec. 31 was $74,395,312 of which the general public held $751,500,000 and the commercial banks the balance. The bank's note circulation increased $180,777,381 in 12 months. The chartered banks' note circulation dropped to $42,200,000 from $60,300,000 the year before.

C.N.R. CONVERSION

While the government had borrowed $7,654,000,000 or about half its monetary requirements during the war, there had been many important offsetting factors. Considerable amounts were used to redeem government and Canadian National Railways securities in London and New York. The C.N.R. had been able to pay interest on its securities held by the public and securities of both the government and the company had been converted into issues at lower interest rates as they became due.

"National income has approximately doubled since before the war, and taxable capacity has increased a good deal more, because surplus income over and above basic food, shelter and clothing requirements has increased proportionately more than total income.

"In relation to taxable capacity, therefore, the burden of federal and C.N.R. debt charges has declined substantially during the war period. It is also less now, in relation to national income, than it was 20 years ago, when net interest charges were about $135,600,000 a year and national income was less than half its present level.

"After the war, some of those who now are employed will voluntarily withdraw from the working force, and the armed services may be maintained at a level considerably above pre-war strength.

GREATER PRODUCTION

"It seems likely, however, that at least 4,700,000 workers will be available for employment in civilian jobs, or at least 1,500,000 more than the number employed in that sector of the economy at the present time.

"A working force of this size, at present rates of efficiency, will be able to produce a vastly greater volume of civilian goods and services than Canada has ever known before. By the same token, a vastly increased volume of consumption and capital development will be necessary if this output is going to be fully absorbed and high employment maintained.

"The adjustments required will clearly be of unprecedented magnitude, and bold planning on the part of labor, farm and business organizations, as well as governments is urgently needed."

Wallace Proposes War Plants in U.S. Be Leased by Govt.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Vice-President Henry A. Wallace last night proposed that instead of selling war plants in the west and southern United States when they no longer are needed for war purposes, the government lease them on terms which will assure their continued independent operation.

"The war plants that have been built in the west and south must be kept in full production," he said in a speech before a gathering sponsored jointly by Minnesota Farmer Labor and Democratic leaders.

"Their production will be required to create the living standard which Americans must have after the war. However, there is grave danger that these plants may be acquired by dominant groups; and that they may either be withheld from production or equivalent capacity retired elsewhere.

Bracken Expected To Attend Tory Meeting in Sask.

Dr. E. C. Hope, chairman of organization for the conference, said yesterday that a committee under the chairmanship of M. A. MacPherson, K.C., had interviewed several prospective candidates for the provincial leadership.

The former president of the provincial association, H. E. Keown of Melfort, recently resigned.

office since the Canadian overseas army command is part of the order of battle of British forces in the United Kingdom.

GOVERNMENT'S POLICY

Statements made in the House last night by Mr. King and Mr. Ralston left no doubt the government's policy was to avoid pursuing the McNaughton case beyond the point of establishing the medical reason for his retirement, though other factors were involved. As Mr. King said, the question was whether it was against public policy to discuss the full circumstances at the present time.

Whether the truce on debate will be observed could not be known in advance. The McNaughton matter may be considered in caucus by the various groups of the House; but this is a question for each leader to decide. Government members have not been taken into confidence on the McNaughton case, it is believed. The Progressive Conservative caucus meets every day.

Party groups will probably hear reports from their leaders. But Prime Minister King made it clear that only the conscience of each leader need be consulted on whether or not information would be disclosed. Mr. Graydon has already stated revelation of information should be subject to security and the national interest.

Liberators Raid Invasion Coast

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Feb. 15.—Liberator bombers under escort of R.A.F. Spitfires and Allied planes of all types joined in a widespread attack on the Pas de Calais strip of the French invasion coast today.

British and American medium bombers, together with R.A.F. Typhoon fighter-bombers, smashed at unidentified German military targets across the narrowest part of the English Channel.

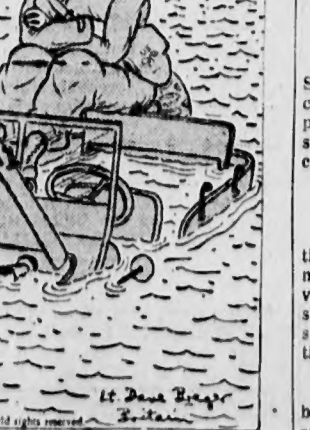

They were covered by R.A.F. R.C.A.F. and Allied fighters in a renewal of the powerful Allied air offensive.

(Vichy radio reported that 25,000 persons had been evacuated from the heavily-bombed region of Pas de Calais, in the invasion section, and were being taken to Nievre, in Central France.)

Canucks Ready Start Invasion States Massey

By JACK BRAYLEY

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner to Britain, arriving here today, said he had left Canada's sailors, soldiers and airmen in Britain in "the top of form, ready to go when the invasion is launched."

Mr. Massey, in a light-weight blue coat more suited to England's milder climate, huddled in the lee of a big Hudson bomber as he spoke briefly with a newsmen after having been greeted by representatives of the governor general, the external affairs department and air force headquarters.

DISCUSS INVASION

Asked whether his talks with government officials would include anything connected with invasion preparations, he said smilingly: "that is quite likely."

He spoke about brief visits he paid to navy, army and air force operational stations in Britain, and said he had been impressed with the great efforts and painstaking preparations being made for the forthcoming invasion.

"I saw on every hand a keenness which certainly exudes confidence to all who come in contact with it," he added.

This is Mr. Massey's first visit to Canada since 1938.

Since the outbreak of war the quiet, efficient diplomat has faced heavy duties. In addition to his governmental duties, he has travelled widely throughout Britain, visiting Canadian servicemen in their camps until he has seen more Canadians than most generals.

Mother, Children Are Found Dead From Gas Fumes

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Feb. 15.—

(CP)—Mrs. Margaret Bailey, 28, and her two children, Margaret Anne, five, and Robert, four, were found dead yesterday in a bedroom of their cottage two miles west of here. The husband, Lyle, 28-year-old greenhouse worker, is in hospital here in critical condition.

Dr. Stanley Asselstine said death was caused by carbon monoxide poisoning. Hospital attendants said they held little hope for recovery of Bailey, found lying unconscious on a bed beside his wife and daughter. His son's body was found in a cot in the same room. Police said the fumes apparently came from one of three natural gas heaters in the house.

Mr. MacKinnon said he made the announcement so flaxseed growers might make their seedling plans with knowledge of the price to be paid.

The new fixed price for Canada Western, basis in store at Fort William, will apply also for No. 1 Canada Eastern, basis in store at Montreal, during the 1944-45 crop year.

Denies Sask. Relief Recipients Forced To "Vote Liberal"

REGINA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Hon.

R. J. M. Parker, minister of municipal affairs, challenged Opposition Leader J. H. Brockelbank in the Saskatchewan legislature yesterday to produce evidence to prove that a relief inspector had told applicants they must vote Liberal or be cut off relief. The charge was made by Mr. Brockelbank in the debate in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

"As the minister responsible for relief I challenge the opposition leader to bring forth the man who made the statement," Mr. Parker said. "There has never been any complaint brought to my attention that any inspector or anyone associated with the department has threatened people in that way."

Hitler Throws All Available Men Against Allies' Anzio Beachhead

By LYNN HEINZERLING

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler has thrown elements of 15 divisions—all he can lay his hands on immediately—into the fight to smash the Allies' Anzio beachhead and stem their assault along the Cassino front, but his position has deteriorated nevertheless.

There is little doubt that the Germans will make additional counter-attacks against the Allied force at Anzio, but so far their attacks have not prevented the Allies from pumping supplies into the bridgehead for further offensive operations.

Although the enemy was able to pinch off a narrow salient north of Carroceto, he as well as the Allies suffered heavy casualties. If the plan was to push on down the road to Anzio, as many Allied strategists believe, it was a failure.

At any rate the atmosphere here is one of confidence, although it is recognized that in war nothing ever is as good or as bad as first reports might lead one to believe.

In addition to the elements of 15 divisions facing the 5th Army, there are two divisions, the 305th and 344th, left to oppose the British 8th Army on the Adriatic front.

Reds Compress Circle Around Trapped Nazis

By HARRISON SALISBURY

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—The Soviet army organ Red Star said today that the survivors of 10 German divisions trapped in the Ukraine had been compressed into a tiny pocket which "is spurting blood under the blows of our troops."

"The German units are melting away each day, and the territory they occupy is becoming steadily smaller," Red Star said in a front dispatch foreshadowing the end of the battle of extermination against the estimated 100,000 Nazis encircled west of Cherkassk.

Military advisers meanwhile raised the possibility that the Red army was using the doomed Nazis as bait for a new trap. The Russians reported a penetration of their positions, rimming the death pocket. Speculation arose that the wedding might have been permitted in order to set up a Nazi spearhead for pinching off in the manner the original German salient was lopped.

ELIMINATES HOPES

The loss of Korsun eliminated whatever hopes the Germans might have had of being able to hold out against the concentric Soviet onslaught until and unless the relief armor could batter a corridor through the noose.

A German communique said powerful Russian attacks were repulsed in heavy fighting yesterday in six sectors scattered from the Ukraine to the Baltic Sea. A Russian landing attempt west of Narva on the northern front was thwarted and two gunboats, several cutters and some landing barges were sunk, the Nazis said.

In what may have been their final attempt to break through the Soviet line from outside to rescue the trapped force, the main German armies to the southwest sacrificed 2,000 men, 72 tanks and more than 20 self-propelled guns in a massive attack that drove only an "insignificant wedge" into the Russian positions.

On the northern front, Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad armies scored unspecified advances toward the key junction of Pskov, gateway to Latvia and southern Estonia, and captured eight localities in a 10-mile advance along a 13-mile front below Luga, northeast of Pskov.

It was understood here yesterday that they are only awaiting instructions what to do in connection with the collection of registration cards during Sunday's nude demonstration.

Partisans Admit German Advances

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(CP)—The Partisan army of Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) last night acknowledged German advances in Herzegovina and the loss of the town of Grachovo after three days of heavy fighting.

A communique from Tito's headquarters said Partisan troops were forced to fall back before German and 500 Chetnik troops advancing from Knin. The communique said the fighting was raging on the whole sector from Grachovo to Lapac.

In Eastern Bosnia the communique said the Partisans fought defensive actions in the Rogatica-Praca sector while in the Kaimik-Kodoprivica-Ludberg sector of Croatia "violent fighting continues."

The Partisans reported that in the scattered fighting the Germans suffered heavy losses in manpower and equipment.

Loyal Edmonton Regiment Men Honor Comrades Killed in Battle for Ortona

By DOUGLAS AMARON
WITH THE CANADIANS
IN ITALY, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Soldiers of the Loyal Edmonton Regiment gathered at a hillside cemetery at the entrance to the Adriatic coastal town of Ortona Sunday to honor men of the regiment who have died in battle.

Fresh in their memories as they stood facing the rows of neat white crosses were the Edmontonians killed in the fierce fighting climaxed by the Dec. 27 capture of Ortona but they paused also to pay tribute to comrades fallen in Sicily and during the long march north from the first landing on Italy Sept. 3.

"Along the weary way that leads to victory there are many such hallowed places as that hill which are forever Canada," said Maj. E. J. Bailey of Winnipeg, the battalion's padre, who stood beside a flag-draped plaque bearing the name of the regiment.

RECALLS GREAT ASSAULT

In a brief address he recalled that from this hillside the Edmontonians began the assault on Ortona—"operations which culminated in a striking victory for our men."

"Into the nearby town they fought their way, house-by-house, street-by-street, against Germany's crack paratroops until by sheer determination and courage they won their way," he said.

The padre called upon the soldiers to "mark well" the names of those who fell "for they made history." He added:

"Today this hallowed ground wrought from the hillside during the heat of battle bears mute testimony to those who pass that Canada's gallant fighting sons are bearing a full share of the world's suffering and will continue to do so until victory is won and peace shall come again."

Guns firing into the German lines sounded an impromptu salvo for the fallen. The troops, only a cross-section of the battalion which is in the line, stood silent for a minute. A trumpet played the Last Post and Reveille.

TWO HYMNS SUNG

Two hymns were sung with accompaniment from a Canadian Corps band. The battalion commander, a lieutenant-colonel from Edmonton, read the lessons. At the end of the service, the soldiers lingered a few minutes looking at the graves and then returned to their duties.

Begin Evacuation Papal Residence

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Evacuation of the Papal summer residence of Castel Gandolfo has begun, the Vatican radio announced last night, but there still are about 10,000 refugees who have not yet been able to move from the Papal village that is part of the estate.

In an appeal to the belligerents, the broadcast said, "consequently any warlike action against the village would be not only an offense against the extra-territorial rights of the village but would also be directed against hundreds of defenceless country people, including women and children."

The Allies Saturday announced that German troops were installed in the Castel Gandolfo grounds and that if they remained there the property would not be spared by Allied bombers.

Up to Citizens

U.S. Paper Takes Vote On "Wide Open" Town

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Nonpareil, this city's daily newspaper, sought yesterday by means of mail straw ballots to determine whether citizens favor a "wide open" town.

The newspaper sent more than 8,000 ballots to each family listed in the telephone directory. Both husband and wife were asked to vote on such questions as "do you favor what is known as a 'wide open' town for Council Bluffs?" and "do you want dog races to come back this year?"

Family heads were asked whether they approved professional gambling places "being allowed to run in this city?" and if they would "support a program to comply with the state law in regard to these questions?"

The newspaper said that sending out of the ballots "has no political bearing," and that it is "not trying to embarrass anyone or elect anyone. The Nonpareil believes the people in office and the people who are going to run for office would like to know how strong sentiment is, one way or the other. In the main we think the people of the city will get just about the kind of local government they want."

Canadian Army To Draw 60,000 Men From Pool

It would "continue to be replenished by the distribution of further reinforcements from Canada as required."

Of non-operational troops in Canada there were more than 75,000 men dealing with the training of men in progressive sequence. "A little" more than 15,000 men were called for compulsory military training.

MAKING REDUCTION

Every effort was made to reduce the home-war establishment. General service personnel, physically fit, was being combed out. Close to 70 per cent. of general service personnel in non-operational units were below category "A" or more than 35 years of age.

By comb-out and disbandment of units, probably 15,000 general service personnel from operational units would be released, many of whom would be in the overseas-service category, the minister said.

A retirement age limit had been established, with the retirement of officers who could not be advantageously employed as well as those who had reached the age "ceiling." A total of about 700 officers to be retired was in prospect. The service of these officers was appreciated but by retirement they gave younger men a chance to advance.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR MEN

Officer-training had not ceased although there was a reserve to meet officer requirements. There would be commission opportunities for men now serving in the ranks, but the general policy was that recommendations for commissions would be made after a man had a chance to prove himself overseas rather than in Canada.

Col. Ralston recalled that last year he had said there would be a reduction in the number of troops in Canada and had forecast the home strength at next March 31 at 235,000.

"I think we have done much better than that," he said.

"We estimate that the army in Canada will be something over 315,000, as against the 235,000 which I predicted, that is, the active effective strength. . . . Some 8,000 granted long-term-leave in agriculture, mining and industry ought not to be included and charged to the army."

C.W.A.C. INCREASED

The minister said he believed the 8,000 were included in the total of 215,000, and there had been an increase of between 3,000 and 4,000 in the Canadian Women's Army Corps during the present fiscal year.

"To me, the most satisfactory feature of the reduction is that in the process over 70,000 men would have been sent overseas by March 31 next year," he continued.

The breakdown as at next March 31 showed the original troops in Canada would be 55,000, non-operational more than 475,000, and in training more than 75,000.

In the last three months the intake of general service men had averaged a little more than 3,700 and almost 4,000 in January.

If recruiting fell off, it would affect the number of men sent overseas in 1944-45 and at March 31, 1945 the reinforcements overseas would be maintained but the number of general service men in Canada would be reduced.

QUESTIONS REINFORCEMENTS

Hon. R. B. Hanson (P.C.-York-Sunbury) asked if Col. Ralston would say that in the event of a second front in Western Europe there were adequate reinforcements.

Col. Ralston: "I will say exactly what I have said here."

Casualties suffered in Italy had been "somewhat less" than expected, Col. Ralston said.

The Canadian Army could never acknowledge fully the work of the reserve army, the old non-permanent active militia, in laying the foundation of the army as it exists today.

The reserve army remained an insurance against the uncertainties of war, said Col. Ralston, adding: "It is sound common sense to maintain that insurance while the risk continues to exist."

There had been an increase of about 3,000 in the C.W.A.C. this year, bringing the total to about 14,000 or 15,000. The service of the women in this force deserved wholehearted appreciation. When they replaced men they did their job as well and sometimes better.

May Allow Officers Grant Commissions

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—The matter of permitting officers commanding to grant commissions in the field is under consideration, Defence Minister Ralston said last night, because there are "many advantages" when officers have a specialized course of training behind them.

Ralston Warns Nazis' Power Is Still Great

many were the main reasons for optimism. But Germany had shown herself able to withstand "prodigious losses." She lost 20 divisions at Stalingrad last winter but all had been replaced with new divisions, well trained and equipped. Eight German divisions had been lost in North Africa.

"Even last year the Germans reformed and re-equipped and raised more than 60 new divisions, each of which had approximately 600 machine-guns and 300 heavier weapons," Col. Ralston said.

NEW TANK MODELS

"Included in the armament of these divisions are new models of tanks, self-propelled guns, rocket guns and other latest type equipment, which is in some cases equal to and in some cases better than anything the Allies have."

A "matchless price" was being paid by those in the forces and it must be continued. Some of the greatest battles remained to be fought—and Canadians would be in them.

The troops knew the going would be hard, Col. Ralston said. Canadians at home must match the troops' fighting spirit with work, determination, self-denial and endurance.

Unclaimed Funds

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Unclaimed balances in Canadian chartered banks at Dec. 31, 1943, totalled $3,549,635, it was stated in an annual report tabled yesterday in the Commons.

A Chartered Bank is ONE WHICH COMPETES WITH NINE OTHERS for your business

These ten competing banks are:

Bank of Montreal

The Bank of Toronto

The Canadian Bank of Commerce

The Dominion Bank

Imperial Bank of Canada

The Bank of Nova Scotia

The Provincial Bank of Canada

The Royal Bank of Canada

Banque Canadienne Nationale

Barclays Bank (Canada)

A chartered bank is the custodian not only of your money on deposit but also of your secrets concerning that money.

A CHARTERED bank is an institution where the details of your bank account are kept secret.

It is called "chartered" because its permission to do business and the conditions and restrictions under which it may do business, are contained in a charter granted and kept up-to-date by parliament, the finest democratic free institution of government that man has yet devised. This charter is an Act of Parliament laying down all of the conditions which safeguard your money.

Ten competing chartered banks are the very opposite of a State Monopoly such as would come about if all the banks were rolled into one by nationalization. Under State Monopoly, if you failed to get accommodation at the one bank, you could not go to any one of nine others to seek it. You can today.

Blackmore Urges Decision on Rebate For Beet Growers
OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—John Blackmore, leader of the New Democracy group, expressed belief yesterday in the commons that Finance Minister Isley should state whether the government plans to grant Canadian sugar beet growers a rebate of one-half cent a pound on sugar produced.

Mr. Blackmore said beet growers had asked for the rebate. He urged a prompt reply to his question on the order paper asking whether the government has adopted any measures to stimulate sugar production in Canada for 1944 and 1945.

Their Bren guns sputtering volleys of leaden disaster, Canadian soldiers in Italy have proven that man for man they are fully equal to the best trained enemy troops. A versatile weapon, easily useful for stationary and mobile firing, the Bren is a favorite among Canadians. Small, compact and easy to handle, it is particularly adaptable for troops advancing. While it cannot make much impression against a tank or armour-plate, the Bren through long and constant use has been proven most efficient where bodies of infantry troops face each other. It is capable of firing both single rounds and bursts.

Russian Relief
NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Russian War Relief Inc., yesterday announced that $16,781,333 worth of clothing, medical supplies and miscellaneous articles were consigned through it to the Soviet Union last year.

Enacted an amendment to the city health code which provides for the inspection of meat and the conduct of slaughter-houses bylaw. This amendment will prevent the shipping of meat into the city unless previously inspected by an inspector duly appointed by the Dominion government.

Referred to the bylaws committee for consideration and report the proposals made by Prof. C. S. Burgess, relative to park sites and future sites for schools in the city. In the Burgess report 39 park sites were already in operation, and four school areas were recommended.

Concurred in the recommendation of the city commissioners that the Riverdale Community League be included in the class "A" category community leagues, and that the usual grant up to $100 for utility services be made available to this league. The approval of council automatically carries with it the grant made by the public school board of $75 to each class "A" community league.

Concurred in the recommendation of the city commissioners and authorized that an additional $13,000 be spent on the extension of No. 2 hangar at the airport. Total cost of this work is now $78,000. City commissioners stated that the increased cost was necessitated to provide further additional space to meet northern flying demands.

Set the fee chargeable for curb pumps vending gasoline at the same rate as last year. Fees paid last year were: In the first fire limits $50 for the first pump, and $25 for each additional pump. In the second fire limits, $35 for the first pump and $17.50 for each additional pump.

Concurred in the recommendation of the city commissioners that a two-year lease be granted to the Kiwanis Children's Aid Society on the southwest corner of 120 street and 104 avenue, and that the rental be $1 per annum. This property is to be used as a playground and for growing vegetables.

What Council Did

Received as information a communication from the British Columbia Security Commission relative to the employment of Japanese in industry in Edmonton. This letter was forwarded to the city council outlining the commission's position regarding placement of Japanese, and gave assurance that no Japanese would be permitted to come to Edmonton without permission from the city council.

Referred to the finance committee a resolution from the Moose Jaw city council protesting the policy of the Dominion government in increasing the price of coal to prairie consumers, while paying the increased cost of production in Ontario and Quebec by subsidies out of the federal treasury. The committee will report on the discrimination against western consumers, alleged in the resolution.

Referred to the finance committee the request of the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses seeking the establishment of day nurseries in the city, and also a communication from Mrs. David Elston seeking municipal assistance in extending facilities of Edmonton College Inc., to meet needs of day nurseries.

Accepted as a progress report the resolution for the special committee dealing with a post-war plan for a new composite high school and recreation centre and instructed the commissioners to reserve from sale land owned by the city lying between the west side of 101 street and the east side of 104 street, and the north side of 108 street, and the south side of Kingsway. This land has been designated as a most suitable location for the proposed school.

Gave third reading to a bylaw prohibiting parking and loitering in certain specified areas in the vicinity of the airport.

Enacted an amendment to the city health code which provides for the inspection of meat and the conduct of slaughter-houses bylaw. This amendment will prevent the shipping of meat into the city unless previously inspected by an inspector duly appointed by the Dominion government.

Air Power

Concentration of Force

By Maj. A. P. de Seversky

Although the facts have been reported in dispatches from the fighting fronts, there has perhaps not been sufficient popular awareness of the terrific quantities of military force we have concentrated against the Marshall Islands, before that against the Gilberts, and in general against isolated Pacific islands.

The facts ought to be better known because they provide some indication of the almost incalculable amounts of force which would be needed to carry out similar assaults on large and well-defended territories, especially against Japan itself.

To begin with, the Marshalls, like the Gilberts before them, were systematically softened up by land-based air attacks before the invasion. For some time in advance, the Marshalls had been bombed by the Seventh Air Force, first directly from the Hawaiian Islands with long-range Liberators and after we assumed command of the Gilberts also with Mitchell bombers and even Warhawk fighter planes. Our aircraft carriers, too, attacked these islands, augmented and supported by land-based aviation from the Gilberts.

Thus, when the main show started, Japanese air power was practically obliterated on the Marshalls Islands and carriers could approach with relative safety. From the news accounts it appears that in the actual invasion we used nearly two million displacement tons of naval force, consisting of battleships, cruisers, carriers, destroyers, transports, tankers, every sort of landing boat and even new secret types of vessels.

It is possible to estimate that perhaps twenty carriers took part in the main action, which means roughly a thousand carrier-based planes plus such aircraft as the Army's Seventh Air Force under General Willis Hale threw into action.

IMMENSE POWER
This gives us a fair idea of the immense power needed in an amphibious action looking to the conquest of a two-by-four island, against an enemy virtually unprotected from overhead.

In military terms these tiny Pacific islands can be viewed as little stationary fortresses or battleships; or even as permanently anchored carriers of such small capacity that they can readily be overwhelmed from floating bases. The fact that we are taking them over one by one, and seem certain to continue the process, underlines the reality that we have obtained command of the seas in the Pacific.

That command, however, extends only to the line where Japanese land-based air power patrols the skies. A surprise assault on Pearl Harbor does not disprove this. The islands are caught in the area of our sea dominance, like so many immovable ships; they are consequently doomed. Indeed, these islands are worse off than ships, since the latter can change positions or return home to replenish their supplies, whereas the islands are anchored for good and dependent on vulnerable supply lines.

SUPERIOR INDUSTRY
In part we owe that sea control to our superior industrial facilities. But another, and in some respects more significant reason is that the Japanese apparently had given up the idea of purely naval warfare long before Pearl Harbor. They were conceivably prepared to lose the open waters of the vast Pacific by default. While we continued to build a two-ocean, then a seven-ocean navy, they were concentrating on the land-sea-air team type of warring. The enemy, there is reason to surmise,

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW

by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

A RECORD of 20 consecutive wins in competitive curling constitutes a real achievement, but the Manahan rink continued to function smoothly on Monday after the day's layoff following a strenuous bonspiel week. And with three victories already tucked away the Manahan four will be hard to keep out of section "B" honors in the current Consols playdowns.

Also with three hurdles successfully negotiated, Whit Matthews had the rail position in section "A", but had played one more draw than Bob Edwards. Important games were listed for the early session today with Matthews meeting Edwards and Manahan opposing Bert Robertson. Results of these two clashes will go a long way toward determining the ultimate winner for both sections.

Best curling yesterday was in the Manahan-Brower game on the 1 o'clock and the Ritchie-McLaren affair on the 4 p.m. draw. McLaren's rink turned in some nice performances during the 'spiel and now with Johnny Campbell at third the threat of the Alberta Ave. quartet is increased. Ritchie beat McLaren 10-3 with the last rock of the game yesterday. Manahan is drawn against the Alberta Ave. skip for Wednesday morning.

PLAYOFFS in both Service and City Men's basketball leagues are scheduled to commence tonight. U.S. Service Squadron got under the wire ahead of No. 2 A.O.S. as a result of last night's sudden death affair for the fourth spot in the Inter-Service league and will meet the second-place I.T.S. squad. The leading Air Corps team plays "M" Depot.

Hospital Meets Quartermasters

Basketball Playoffs Open At Westglen Gym Tonight

Playoffs in both divisions of the Edmonton Men's Basketball League get under way tonight at the Westglen high school gym starting at 7:30 o'clock. U.S. Station Hospital takes the floor against Quartermasters in the "A" division game and Y.M.C.A. clashes with Bechtel, Price, Callahan in the "B" section curtain raiser.

The game between Varsity and U.S. Engineers scheduled for tonight was defaulted by the former. Latter Day Saints, who finished third, dropped out of the playoffs due to losing three of their key players, leaving only four teams in the "A" section.

On Friday night of this week, the second place Yanks take on the league leading Engineers in the second game of the "A" series and Y.M.C.A. plays Aircraft Repair in the next contest of "B" the same night.

Tuesday, Feb. 22 and the following Friday are all "A" playoff evenings. On the Tuesday, Yanks meet Quartermasters in the opener and Engineers tangle with Hospital in the second fixture while on Feb. 25, Yanks will clash with Hospital and Engineers will play Quartermasters.

Third encounter in "B" playoffs will be on Tuesday, Feb. 29 when Aircraft Repair meets Bechtel, Price, Callahan.

The Engineers came through the schedule with a perfect record to top "A" division while Aircraft Repair captured the leadership of "B" with seven victories and only three setbacks. Following are the team statistics for the season:

Gehrig Likely to Become Most Popular Sports Figure

By JACK CUDDY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—If you blew into New York on a rocket plane a hundred years from now, and you asked the sports writers of 2044 who they believed was the most popular sports figure in American history, we are confident they would agree: Lou Gehrig.

We make this prediction, not merely because the "pride of the Yankees" has a robust lead in the current New York war bond popularity poll, but because "Iron Horse" Gehrig was a shay but effective personality, like Lincoln, whose appreciation grows with the years.

Lou Gehrig died on June 2, 1941. He died a gradual fading—of death from a rare form of infantile paralysis. His death was expected and greeted—because there was no hope. But he died—a martyr to baseball—a man who possibly might have been saved had he heeded the warnings of nature—the "lumbago" he felt in his back and the lassitude he felt in spirit, as he completed the 2,330 consecutive games, which established an all-time record that down through the years will defy approach.

his "iron man" record singled him out for appreciation of performance among the fans and writers; but it was his inherent modesty—his refusal to be a "color guy" like the great Babe Ruth, in whose shadow he played for many years—that endeared him to the public. He had modest, self-effacing personality of Lincoln, although nature had done an about face and blessed him with the countenance and powerful body of a Greek god.

Gehrig bade a pathetic farewell to baseball on the sun-drenched afternoon of July 4, 1939. Already the best physicians in the land had passed their death sentence upon him. There was no hope for the "Iron Horse" recovering from the rare affliction that had sapped his strength.

Short Putt Gives Johnny Revolta Win Over Nelson
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Imperturbable Johnny Revolta of Evansville, Ind., laid down a three-under-par 68 Monday to gallop in with the Texas open championship and $1,000 in war bonds.

The finish was one of the most dramatic in the 22-year history of the tournament—Revolta closing out with a fine 273 for the 72 holes. Byron Nelson was just one stroke behind coming to the 18th.

Nelson, the former national open champion from Toledo, Ohio, had staged one of the finest comebacks in tournament history to enter the last round with a 206 to Revolta's 205.

At No. 18 Nelson needed a birdie to tie for the lead. He drove within 25 feet of the cup and took a lot of time getting ready to putt. As the huge gallery roared, Nelson's shot went straight for the hole but stopped a foot and a half away—and that was the championship for Revolta.

Upstart Follows Ref's Decision Algiers Boxing
ALGIER, Feb. 15.—(AP)—An upstart over a referee's decision marked the opening Monday of a week-long Allied boxing tournament to determine the North Africa championships in 16 classes, amateur and professional.

The disturbance broke out when the referee ruled Dave Steinweller, United States army scrapper from Dayton, O., the winner over Addadine Abdalkader, Algerian Arab serving in the French navy, in the amateur middleweight class.

Judges, Seconds Selected For U.S. Boxing Tourney

Men who know the gloves best, ring-wise former campaigners with the padded mitts and men who through long years of watching the boys swing leather have attained an expert knowledge of things fistie have been selected to "work" the U.S. Army boxing tournament amateur ring carnival which opens Wednesday night at the Arena.

Referees for the classic will be Captain William Moulton who'll be handling fights in the tournament for the first time since arriving here, he is also the coach of the U.S. Army boxing team. Lt. George W. Regitz will also be the third man in the ring.

A capable and experienced corps of judges, trained in rendering true decisions through long years of serving in tournaments, will take turns in the chairs to watch with keen, knowing eyes each punch tossed in the tournament and to award the points to the young fighter which add up to either victory or defeat.

Judges of the tournament will be F. O. Gerry Widdington, F. O. "Jake" Jamieson, F. L. Hansen, Lt. Hugh Carson, Captain Aubrey Laws and Captain Frank Wriggleworth.

Sammy Kahn will handle the "mike" and enlivening the brief wait between fights with his life on Brooklyn.

The tournament official seconds will be Mr. Filio, who carved a ring career for himself a number of years ago, and Cpl. Manual Dorsky, who has done himself and Birmingham home town a bit of alright.

Rene Le Blanc will serve as official timer.

Those are the officials who conduct their respective jobs "on the scene" at the tournament, but just as important to the running of the Army's Gloves are the men who toil "behind the curtain" readying the young leather swingers for their brief fling at "Gloves Glory."

The clerk's job again will be in the capable hands of Eddie Malloy, whose job is to see that the fights keep rolling along with the fighters ready to step through the ropes and start slugging just as soon as their predecessors have decided just which is the better man.

Sgt. Robert Christian will be in charge of equipment. Handwrappers, the men who get the fighters' weapons ready for the shock they'll have to take when the boys get in there and start tossing punches from South Africa, will be Pte. Paul Blaw and Cpl. Tex Wheeler.

Captain Stratton, of the Air Corps, will co-operate in getting the boys weighed the day of the fight, guaranteeing that no lad will be forced to enter the ring against a boxer too heavy for him.

Dorazio Scores An Easy Victory
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Veteran Gus Dorazio won the city heavyweight championship last night by scoring a lopsided decision over youthful Dusty Wilkerson in the feature 10-round of a boxing show at the arena.

Dorazio, who at 197½ had an 18-pound advantage, had little difficulty justifying the 12-to-5 pre-fight odds in his favor. A crowd of 5,000 paid $10,831 to see Gus score his 12th victory in his last 13 fights and earn a possible match with Cleveland's Jimmy Bivins here next month.

The tournament official seconds will be Mr. Filio, who carved a ring career for himself a number of years ago, and Cpl. Manual Dorsky, who has done himself and Birmingham home town a bit of alright.

Rene Le Blanc will serve as official timer.

Those are the officials who conduct their respective jobs "on the scene" at the tournament, but just as important to the running of the Army's Gloves are the men who toil "behind the curtain" readying the young leather swingers for their brief fling at "Gloves Glory."

The clerk's job again will be in the capable hands of Eddie Malloy, whose job is to see that the fights keep rolling along with the fighters ready to step through the ropes and start slugging just as soon as their predecessors have decided just which is the better man.

Sgt. Robert Christian will be in charge of equipment. Handwrappers, the men who get the fighters' weapons ready for the shock they'll have to take when the boys get in there and start tossing punches from South Africa, will be Pte. Paul Blaw and Cpl. Tex Wheeler.

Captain Stratton, of the Air Corps, will co-operate in getting the boys weighed the day of the fight, guaranteeing that no lad will be forced to enter the ring against a boxer too heavy for him.

Dorazio Scores An Easy Victory
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Veteran Gus Dorazio won the city heavyweight championship last night by scoring a lopsided decision over youthful Dusty Wilkerson in the feature 10-round of a boxing show at the arena.

Dorazio, who at 197½ had an 18-pound advantage, had little difficulty justifying the 12-to-5 pre-fight odds in his favor. A crowd of 5,000 paid $10,831 to see Gus score his 12th victory in his last 13 fights and earn a possible match with Cleveland's Jimmy Bivins here next month.

Ken Cox Scores Five, Assists in Two as Leaders Take Peppery Clash

E.A.C. Juniors 10-2

Ralph Hansch Is Brilliant in Last Canto

By DON KILLIPS

HIGHLIGHTED by a rough third period in which the winners completely out-skated their opponents to rap in six goals, the Canadians soundly trounced the cellar dwelling Edmonton Athletic Club 10-2 at 119 street Monday night in the second last scheduled game in the City Junior Hockey League.

Ken Cox, leading scorer in the circuit, ran his total to 36 points as he led the Canadians with five goals and two assists. He scored three in the third period—one of which was a penalty shot awarded the Canucks when Ralph Hansch charged out of his net and boarded Jim Fleming.

The first period was very close and after four minutes and 45 seconds Joe Trofimuk finished off a play with Sam Milner to put Edmonton Athletic Club ahead 1-0. The Canadians didn't waste much time in coming back, however, and Cox and Fleming clicked to tie the count and then Howey Green fed the puck to Jim Slugg at his own blue line and the latter went down to back hand and passed Hansch and put the winners ahead for the first time.

INCREASED LEAD

The Canadians added to their margin when Cox drove one in early in the second period and Fleming finished off a play with the former only 15 seconds later. The game had been penalty-free until 7:05 when Milner was waved for tripping, but before the session ended, four more were handed out.

When Graham Cragg of E.A.C. was in the box, his team-mate Pete Petaske fired a long shot on an assist from Chris Cairns that beat Alex Cavalli who was back in the Canadian nets after being shelved with an eye injury, to make the score 4-2 at the end of the second stanza.

The last period was rough with eight penalties handed out, one a major, and at one time there were five players in the box. The Canadians dominated the play in this chapter, driving six more goals past Hansch, who was brilliant in stopping many shots. Cavalli had very little work at the other end of the rink.

THOMAS SCORES

Thomas opened the counting in the final canto on a solo effort at 5:15 and seven seconds later Slugg passed to John Rypien to make it 6-2 before Cox relayed out to "Christie" Christenson to increase the lead.

Cox then beat Hansch on a waste-high penalty shot and rapped in two more with Slugg assisting in the first and Fleming in the second to end the scoring with more than eight minutes to go.

Abandons Effort To Buy Dodgers

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Max Meyer, Brooklyn Jeweler, said last night he has decided to drop his efforts to purchase the Brooklyn National League baseball club.

Meyer, who recently sold his stock holdings in the Boston Braves, said he and his associates "found that had we acquired the (Brooklyn) stock and met all obligations we would not have had a comfortable working capital. We consider it best at this time to retire from the negotiations."

Meyer had hoped to purchase 75 per cent of the outstanding Brooklyn stock, 50 per cent from the Ebbets heirs and 25 per cent from Mrs. Stephen Ryan, heir of the Edward McKeever estate.

Mack Claims No Player Shortage

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Connie Mack says it's all the talk about the major leagues dragging the great old-timers back into baseball to save the game from the war-time rocks. "We don't need them; we don't want them; I doubt if any one of them wants to come back, and they can't play any more anyway," Mack says. "The Athletics' 81-year-old manager, 'Dad' Baker, rather keep the game going with 14 and 15-year-olds.

"In the first place we are going to have enough 4-F's to carry us through, besides the men who aren't called and youngsters who haven't gone into the service."

Halts Questioning

King to Show Party Chiefs
All Secret Correspondence
Regarding Gen. McNaughton

By JAMES MCCOOK

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King intervened in a House of Commons discussion yesterday to say that he had "very grave doubts whether it is not against public policy to discuss further at this time" the granting of leave to Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton and relieving him of the overseas army command.

Minister Gives
House Details
Of Wheat Deal

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Trade Minister MacKinnon said yesterday in the Commons that the United States proposes to buy 175,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in 1944 if transportation facilities are available.

The "tentative plans" for the purchase were being made by the United States war food administration through the Commodity Credit Corporation. The program was subject to change in the light of transportation developments and war food administration needs.

Between Dec. 14 and Feb. 10 inclusive, the Canadian Wheat Board has sold 10,289 cars of wheat (about 18,000,000 bushels) for shipment by rail to the United States from prairie points.

VARIOUS PRICES

Prices asked for such wheat ranged from lows of $1.41, $1.38 and $1.36 a bushel for No. 1, 2 and 3 Northern, to highs of $1.47, $1.44 and $1.42 for the same grades—all basis in store at Fort William.

The United States buyers intended to move 40,000,000 bushels of the proposed 175,000,000-bushel purchase direct in United States railway cars from western country points, 30,000,000 bushels by ship from Vancouver and other Pacific ports, and 105,000,000 bushels by lake ship during the 1944 season of navigation.

Purchases by the Commodity Credit Corporation were being made from time to time in amounts broadly corresponding to the quantities for which firm transportation commitments can be made.

Willkie States
His Platform
For Presidency

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie in a formal announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for president of the United States yesterday designated Ralph H. Case, Portland lawyer, as his pre-convention manager and outlined the foundation for his campaign.

The Republican party can win the 1944 election, Willkie said at a press conference, only by presenting proof to the people through its nominee and its platform that:

1. The war can be fought as effectively or more effectively with a Republican instead of a Democrat in the White House;
2. The G.O.P. has a better understanding than the Democratic party of post-war social and economic adjustments which will confront the United States;
3. The Republicans' interest in and understanding of the United States' role in co-operation with the world is stronger and deeper than that of the Democrats.

This "must not be a mere cloak put on for political and campaign purposes but a deep and abiding belief," Willkie said, and must be carried by the presidential candidate himself.

Upon this structure, Willkie said, his campaign will be carried throughout the 48 states under the organizational leadership of the G.O.P. national committeemen from Oregon.

Says Reserve Army
Officers "Jingos"
And Reactionaries

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Reserve army officers, especially some of the older men, are reactionaries and "Jingos," said Fred Rose (Lab. Prog., Montreal-Cartier) in the house of commons last night.

He said there was nervousness among certain people about the army's role in strikes and that he had seen soldiers parading during a strike at Shawinigan Falls, Que., "intimidating the workers."

"If we mean to plan for a peaceful post-war world there is no necessity to arouse people who join the reserve army by telling them that they may be used in case of emergency," he added.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Germans facing the Canadian Corps of the British 8th Army along the Arielli River front were observed yesterday to be moving about in the central sector of the front under the protection of the Red Cross.

The enemy is believed to be using this device to change troops in forward positions.

Generally, the battle picture yesterday on this Adriatic coastal sector was not clouded with local patrolling still the only activity.

Ralston Tells House of Commons:

Troops Called Under N.R.M.A. Constitute
Second Line of Overseas Reinforcements

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Canada's troops called up under the National Resources Mobilization Act constitute a second line of reinforcements for the army overseas, Defence Minister Ralston said last night in the House of Commons.

He was replying to opposition speakers who asked the justification for keeping such a large home force.

If the time came when it was necessary to use them as reinforcements for overseas, the minister said, "I will have to make the recommendation."

ONLY ONE ARMY

Many people who spoke about the "home army" or the "home defence army" failed to realize there was only one army, "the Canadian Active Army." In it were a number of call-up troops who were not liable to serve outside Canada.

"These troops are doing jobs which someone else would have to do if they were not there," said the minister.

"What are they doing?" asked Hon. R. B. Hanson (P.C.-York-Sunbury). Col. Ralston said that was the same question he heard years ago from a section of the opposition which asked what Canada wanted troops for, why the government was preparing for war.

"We don't have these operational troops just for fun," said the minister.

The operational troops included coast defence batteries on both coasts, fortress troops, searchlight units and close support battalions.

34,950 "OPERATIONAL"—Of the 70,000-odd N.R.M.A. men in the army, 34,950 were operational troops; 11,000 were non-operational employed on servicing duties, in ordnance, medical training and other duties; 15,000 were in the training stream; 6,000 were in depots awaiting transfers and post-matter with me privately until there had been some open discussion of the situation in parliament.

"I preferred to extend my invitation to him in the house of commons at the time I thought it became necessary. That is the sole reason I have not conferred with my friend on this point."

Mr. Stirling said there should be no more said about the McNaughton situation until after the war.

ings; and 5,300 were on leave, some on extended farm leave.

Howard Green (P.C.-Vancouver South) said the difference of opinion between the government and the opposition was that the opposition believed National Resources Mobilization Act (call-up) troops should be sent overseas as fighting men. He asked why Canada should not send them to fight the Japanese.

Col. Ralston asked if Mr. Green seriously suggested sending a force to fight the Japanese on a third front for Canada in view of the manpower situation.

Mr. Green said he did.

SEES NEW CRITICISM

Col. Ralston said if that were done the first people to complain would be some Conservatives who now were talking of reinforcements.

Canada had five divisions overseas, two of them in Italy. To send another force against the Japanese would require still more reinforcements. Some critics now said the army was too big.

Mr. Green asked why a Canadian force was sent to Kiska in the Aleutians. Col. Ralston said that was before the troops went to Sicily. They had been sent to do an important job.

"The fact is," said the minister, "that we reached the peak about a year ago as far as sending new capital units overseas is concerned."

"Now my friend is suggesting we send another brigade."

RAPS "SOME OFFICERS"—George Cruickshank (L., Fraser Valley), said non-commissioned officers in the home-defence army who were "afraid to go overseas" could tell a general service soldier to pick up a cigarette butt. Home-defence troops in British Columbia did not do "an honest day's training."

"It is a disgrace to the active soldier that any man afraid to go overseas should tell him what to do," he said. "If the minister wants instances I have them."

"I'd be glad to have them," said Col. Ralston.

"It took 18 of them three days to dig one posthole," said Mr. Cruickshank. "I think the minister could well afford to send some of the brass bands around here to see these fellows in British Columbia. They are sitting around on the sidewalks while the active service men put up telephone lines."

GET LITTLE TRAINING—Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East), said there appeared to be men in the home-defence army who got little military training but worked for private employers. One man called up had worked on telephone poles in the bush for a contractor, later did pick-and-shovel work, and later still was engaged on track maintenance. He finally was sent to hospital and his parents were told he was mentally deranged.

There should be an explanation if these men worked for private employers.

Col. Ralston said men could be detailed for duty at civilian work and could be given leave to go to private employers for essential work.

Provinces Seek Government Plan For Road Funds

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Provincial highway ministers at conference yesterday drafted a brief which will be presented Tuesday to Finance Minister Islay and Transport Minister Michaud, asking that the federal government establish now a basis of contribution to post-war road building.

The meeting also decided to ask the federal government to establish a permanent basis of federal contribution to highway construction and improvement in all provinces.

The brief will be presented on behalf of all nine provinces. Those who attended yesterday's meeting included: Deputy Minister J. D. Miller; Works Minister Erick F. Willis; Manitoba; Highway Minister A. T. Procter, Saskatchewan; and Works Minister W. A. Fallow, Alberta.

King to Make
Disclosures of Great Concern

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last night in the Commons that when opposition party leaders consult with him on the leave granted Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former Canadian army commander overseas, they will see documents of "great concern" not only to Canada but to other United Nations.

Mr. King extended the invitation for a meeting with opposition leaders at the close of the afternoon sitting. When the house resumed after dinner, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said he welcomed the suggestion and thought it would be worthwhile if Gen. McNaughton could attend Tuesday. Sometimes, he said, official documents do not tell the whole story.

PARTY LEADERS ONLY

Mr. King replied that it would be preferable to have only the party leaders present at the first meeting. If another meeting with the General present were desired, it could be considered.

Hon. R. B. Hanson (P.C., York-Sunbury) agreed with Mr. King. He suggested a meeting as suggested by Mr. Coldwell would develop into a cross-examination of Gen. McNaughton.

Mr. Hanson said he wondered, however, why all the correspondence could not be laid on the table if it was to be disclosed to the party leaders. He asked what restrictions would be placed on the leaders as to what they could tell their followers.

NO "RESTRICTIONS"

Mr. King said there would be no restriction "beyond what their own consciences place upon them." All of them were "honorable gentlemen."

What would be disclosed in the correspondence, would be of great concern not only to the Canadian government but to the governments of the United Kingdom, United States and other United Nations. It was also to be remembered that the correspondence was in code.

"I am one who had to do with the appointment of Gen. McNaughton," he said. "I hold him in the highest esteem."

He then read a cablegram he had sent to Gen. McNaughton when the General was relieved of the army command, expressing his own and the government's appreciation of the General's services to Canada and the United Nations as a whole.

Gardiner Answers
Coldwell's Charge

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner yesterday replied in the Commons to remarks made last week about the Humboldt (Sask.) federal by-election last September by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader.

Mr. Gardiner said the remarks reflected on his activities "as a member of this house and the cabinet."

Mr. Gardiner gave details of work which he said was being done by the operators of all federal government cars which Mr. Coldwell had listed as being used in the constituency during the by-election. He said not one was used for political purposes.

The C.C.F. leader had listed the numbers of all cars seen outside the hotel in Humboldt at which Mr. Coldwell stayed and then checked them at Regina to determine which were owned by the federal government, said Mr. Gardiner. Then, he said, without further investigation, the C.C.F. had charged they were used for election purposes.

400 Doukhobors
Peel Off Clothes

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

CRESTOVA, B.C., Feb. 15.—Four hundred Doukhobors "extremists" stripped off their clothing in a wild frenzy here Sunday and threatened to destroy their national registration cards, money and other legal documents as a gesture of defiance against all authority, it was learned today.

The "Sons of Freedom" assembled at this tiny Kootenay settlement late in the day and began taking off their clothing despite freezing temperatures—one of the sect's favorite weapons of protest. They hurled their registration cards, money, ration books, titles to property and all other legal documents into a cardboard box.

"It is a gesture of defiance against all authority," a spokesman for the naked demonstrators declared. "We will have nothing more to do with these papers."

The Doukhobors later carried the box to nearby Shore Acres and announced they would either burn the documents or send them back to provincial police officers or the government.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE

QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Merrick Drug Stores or any drugstore and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful, itchy chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

Police Report Find Man Dead, Rooming House

John Klamanchuk, 50 years old, and a roomer at 10409 98 street, was found dead about 6:15 a.m. Tuesday, by Mrs. Mary Korolchuk, his landlady, according to city police. Klamanchuk was said to have been found sitting in a room other than his own and occupied by three guests.

Klamanchuk, who occupied a downstairs room, had made arrangements to call the three men in the room in which he was found dead about 6 a.m., according to Vincent Shwerchinski, one of the three occupants.

According to Breda, Klamanchuk was sitting on the edge of the bed, smoking a cigarette, when he awoke about 3 a.m. The former said he did not speak to the man, and fell asleep again.

IN ILL-HEALTH

The dead man had been in ill-health for some time, police were told by Mrs. Korolchuk, who said she had gone to the upper room to call the men and found Klamanchuk sitting in a chair in the room. When she spoke and he did not answer, she shook him, and then found he was dead.

Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief provincial coroner, was notified, and ordered the body removed to McConnelly and McKinley funeral home.

Money, amounting to $182, and a watch, said to be the property of the dead man, was taken to police headquarters.

I, too, was one of the freezing, shivering group of hockey fans probably because my friend was, but before I knew it, I was yelling like most of them—"Go to it, boy."

We were at the 119 Street rink, and unmindful of the low temperature, we stood around and stamped our feet and stretched our necks to watch the puck whirling across the ice.

From six to 60, men, women and children, the loyal group gazed their eyes to the puck and watched the hockey sticks and skates whiz by from one end of the rink to the other.

"That's what you call team work," my friend said. "Really?" I replied, not knowing exactly what he meant except that a goal had been scored.

Northern Trapper Sees Likelihood Animals Are Moving North

Extinction of Arctic White Fox

Does the Arctic white fox, biggest prize of the far north trapper, face extinction at the hands of his colored fox brethren?

This is a distinct possibility is the contention of Lawrence F. Semmler, veteran trapper and trapper of the Coronation Gulf district, nearly 2,000 miles north of Edmonton, who is a visitor here.

Semmler, who has spent 17 years trading in fur and trapping on the shores of Coronation Gulf and on barren Victoria Island, further north, said here Tuesday that the gradual migration north of the colored foxes is an unexplainable phenomenon of the present day in the far north.

Steady increase in the numbers of red and silver fox in the barren Arctic regions would not in itself be a bad thing for northland trappers and traders.

The trouble is that the colored foxes slaughter the white ones. The latter animal is much smaller than those of the red and silver breeds. The white fox is an easy prey to the colored animal, Mr. Semmler said.

"Natives have seen red fox chasing white fox. When the white fox is fat he hasn't a chance. Only the lean ones can get away. They escape by stopping suddenly and leaping to one side. The pursuing colored fox keeps right on going, being unable to pull up so quickly. The white fox then escapes to his den for the time being," he explained.

So serious has the situation become that Semmler is closing one of his posts on the south shore of Coronation Gulf and is moving it across to the island.

There the colored foxes have not as yet made their appearance in large numbers.

This migration of colored fox northward is a mystery.

"When I went north 17 years ago you would not find a colored fox north of the timber line. They have been moving in gradually," Mr. Semmler said.

Despite the menace of the colored fox, Mr. Semmler said that last year was one of the best for fur in the north in years. This season has been a lean one so far.

Another surprising piece of information brought from the far north by Semmler is the fact that as most of Canada cringed beneath the whiplash of the coldest winter in 35 years last year, weather in the far north was relatively balmy.

"There was open water in some parts of the gulf all winter," Mr. Semmler said.

Semmler has his main trading post at Cape Krusenstern, on the south shore of Coronation Gulf.

He has just completed a trip to his old home in Portland, Oregon. It is his first trip out of the north in two years.

His wife and two small children live with him in the far north.

War Declared on Pigeons At City Council Meeting

War was declared on pigeons Monday night when city council unanimously concurred in the recommendation of the bylaws committee that these birds be "thinned out" because of the nuisance created in the vicinity of the post office, the McLeod building, and other structures in the downtown area.

Plans have been completed for the trapping and destruction of the birds, and the battleground will be the roof of the civic building.

Commissioner John Hodgson told council that a trap has been placed on the building, and it is anticipated that but now placed there will lure the pigeons to their doom. Bill Ruff, an employee of the city engineer's department and a well-known pigeon fancier will be in charge of the extermination operations.

He will be assisted by the city poundkeeper.

Requests for the destruction of the pigeons came from the Edmonton Local Council of Women, and also from owners and operators of business premises in the vicinity of the market square.

Several individuals protested against the proposed destruction and Ald. Sidney Bowcott, who was critical of the proposal when it was first considered by city council, agreed that after an examination of the situation, something must be done to "thin out the pigeons."

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

The regular monthly meeting of the Edmonton Hospital Board will be held Friday, Feb. 18, at 6 p.m.

Richard Sellors, passenger agent supervisor for C.P.A. Western Division, is an Edmonton business visitor from Lethbridge.

Mrs. Alexandria Zandruck, 10025 103 avenue, an employee of Swift Canadian packing house, was taken by Hays' taxi to Royal Alexandra hospital at 12:45 p.m., suffering from an injured leg.

A permit for the construction of a house costing $2,000 was issued by the city architect's department Tuesday to Andrew Rybackow. The dwelling will be built at 12021 89 street.

Fred Luchko, 10237 96 street, told city police that he had been assaulted by two men at 8:30 p.m. Monday, as he left a 96 street grocery store. Meeting one of the men at the door, the latter hit him with his fist, causing Luchko to fall backwards through glass in the door. Another man, hit from behind, after which the two ran to a car and drove away. Acting upon a description of the first assailant, authorities later placed a 96A street resident under arrest.

Returns for the second week of the food industry's War Savings Stamp drive show a total of $10,180, making the total stamp sales for the first two weeks of the drive $26,466 for Northern Alberta. The food industry's objective for the month of February is $40,000. A special sales drive is being launched in Edmonton on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. when all food vendors in the city will suspend operations and devote 15 minutes exclusively to the sale of War Savings Stamps.

Would Pay Troops Till Rehabilitated

That service personnel be maintained until properly rehabilitated in civilian life, was urged in a resolution passed at the monthly meeting of the British Imperial Comrades Association at Imperial Hall Monday evening.

President F. N. Harris was in the chair.

Considerable discussion on the subject of rehabilitation was carried on and several resolutions concerning re-establishment of veterans, previously approved by the Edmonton Ex-Servicemen's Rehabilitation Committee, were endorsed.

F. N. Harris, H. G. Swanson and A. V. Johns were named to represent the British Imperial Comrades Association on the Ex-Servicemen's Rehabilitation Committee.

Many letters of thanks from members of the service for Christmas parcels were read.

Also read was a card of thanks from Staff Sergeant R. Corder, taken prisoner at Dieppe.

Man Is Arrested On Theft Charge

Thomas Stevens, 42 years old, resident at a city hotel, was placed under arrest and charged with theft of an auto, at 11:45 a.m. Monday, after he was found in a vehicle reportedly stolen from the William Bruno garage, 96 avenue and 99A street, shortly after 11 a.m.

According to police Bruno stated he had bought the auto, a 1938 sedan, on Feb. 11, at which time he made full payment, consisting of a 1937 coach and $175 in cash. He took possession of the vehicle at that time.

Mrs. Bruno told police that Stevens came to her house shortly after 11 a.m. and asked for the key to garage, saying he had wanted some tools he had left there. She and her husband, both looked out in time to see the car being driven away from the garage. Value of the auto was said to be about $800.

Stevens, appearing before Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., in city police court Tuesday morning, was found guilty of the charge and was placed on suspended sentence for 12 months and his own recognition of $1,000.

THE QUESTION

Do you think that there have been real contributions by mankind as a whole to peace—knowing that in the last 4,000 years, only 258 years have been entirely free of war? And do you believe that there is a solution and that it would be possible to have lasting peace?

THE ANSWERS

JOHN BYRNE, construction superintendent: We have to fight in order to get along. Fighting doesn't do us any good, but it puts more fighting blood into us, and we have to fight to get along. There will be a day when a solution will come, when perhaps there will be only one or two world powers, or a combination of the British Empire, the United States, and Russia. All "isms" will be out.

M. HOLT, buyer: The fact that less than one-tenth of the last 4,000 years have been peaceful ones, more or less, is a blot upon humanity. There may be solutions, but until a proper system of distribution of goods, regardless of that inanimate substance called "money," is found, I don't see much hope for an enduring peace.

A. A. RILEY, farmer: It might be possible to have a lasting peace, if we can forget the past. You only have to mention who started one fight, who ended another—and you have another one on your hands! Everybody's own nationality is the best in the world. Do away with that idea—and we have taken a step in the right direction to have peace.

1,700 Persons Searching For Rooms in City

About 1,700 persons in Edmonton are seeking accommodation in housekeeping rooms, suites, or houses, Mrs. M. Fielding, director of the Edmonton Accommodation Bureau reported Tuesday.

This represents applications dating back as far as December which have not been filled. For the first 15 days of January alone, 150 applications were received.

Most persons requesting aid in finding housing are Canadian civilians, U.S. Army personnel, and women with children who have come to join their husbands employed in war work.

There are 300 requests for suites and 500 for housekeeping rooms already on hand, with more pouring in every day.

In addition, Mrs. Fielding pointed out, requests are coming in from the rural districts and small towns outside of Edmonton from persons who have accepted temporary housing outside of Edmonton, but who are anxious to live within the city.

Mrs. Fielding stressed the urgency of public co-operation in listing all available housekeeping rooms and suites with the bureau.

SERIOUS SITUATION

The situation is really serious, she said. There are too many families with children trying to live in one room and more adequate housing is necessary for them.

At the same time, the Y.W.C.A. rooms registry and travellers aid department reported that while the need for bedrooms has relaxed somewhat, the need for accommodation for servicemen and their families has greatly increased.

APPLICATIONS INCREASE

According to Miss C. Cornack and Miss M. Kay who supervise this department, the number of applications from servicemen and their families is rapidly increasing and places which will accept children are very few and far between.

The department at present is concentrating on meeting the needs of

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Domesticity Profession Every Girl Should Know

Bride Should Study, and Fit Herself for Housekeeping As She Would for Any Other Career In Life

If I could give one piece of advice more earnest than any other to every young bride, I would say: Make a profession of domesticity. Make an art of cookery. Make a science of running a budget. Put just as much intelligence and hard work into studying how to be a good housekeeper as you would into preparing yourself to be a doctor, or a lawyer, or a private secretary.

Don't think that marriage is an invitation to sit down on the do-nothing stool and let George do it, and that because you have a husband who is legally bound to support you that you can spend the balance of your life playing bridge and going to bargain sales. Don't delude yourself into thinking that because you can't be fired for laziness and trifling and general incompetence that it gives you the privilege of loafing on your job.

CHISELS

You may get by with it. Lots of wives do. There are plenty of women who spoil good food for forty years and throw half of their husbands' earnings into the garbage can without ever learning how to make a biscuit that is fit for human consumption, or to turn a house into a home. Don't be one of these feminine chisels who make marriage nothing but a graft. It is a curious thing that although domesticity is women's hereditary calling and the one they plan and desire to follow, they look down upon it with contempt. You will hear them say disparagingly: "I'm ONLY a housewife." Or: "I wish I had something interesting to do like being in business." Or: "I wish I knew some way to make money, but I have never done anything but keep house."

And because they think their occupation neither romantic, nor thrilling, nor profitable, millions of women never bother to perfect themselves in it. They never even try to learn how to make decent coffee, or to cook the kind of a dinner that keeps a husband walking the straight and narrow path back to his home of an evening.

Yet the fate of every family lies in the hands of the woman who is at the head of it. Juvenile delinquents and philandering husbands don't come out of happy, comfortable, well-run homes. Whether children grow up strong and sturdy, and men are still in their prime in their sixties depends upon how they are fed more than upon anything else. And Mother's thrift is the foundation on which nine-tenths of the fortunes are built.

So, I would say to the starry-eyed little bride: If you want to hold your husband's affections, don't bother so much about trying to keep young and beautiful and preserving a willowy figure as you do about making him comfortable. Concentrate on turning out an A-1 job as a housekeeper and manager who can run the domestic machinery so smoothly he won't even hear the wheels go around.

Furthermore, consider this, that in making yourself an expert housewife you acquire one of the best trades that women can follow and one by which they can always and anywhere make a living. For the demand for interior decorators and fashion designers and cradle rockers, etc., fluctuates according to good times or hard times, but people will always be hungry three times a day, and there will never be enough good cooks to go around.

Feeding people will always be women's best bet, and, when one does this superlatively well, people will wear a path to her door. A few women have made fortunes in some spectacular venture, but thousands of women have made comfortable livings out of boarding houses. Only those have failed who laid down on their jobs.

Hence, I urge every bride to make a fine art of housekeeping. Let her fit herself for it as she would for any other career, so if the time ever came when she would be thrown on her own resources and needed to support herself she would have a good, money-making profession at her fingers' end.

Minute Make-Ups

If you are the "frilly" type, wear curls and waves so that your hair will match your personality! If you are the sleek, tailored type, brush your hair up close to your head. Lacquer it lightly so that your headline looks "tailored" to your personality!

SWOLLEN NECK GLANDS

Today's article will discuss a simple swelling of the glands of the side of the neck, referred to as simple adenitis, and which is not due to tuberculosis. Adenitis occurs in both an acute and chronic form, and is found frequently among young children although it also is found among adults.

The glands or nodes are a part of the lymphatic system. Such nodes occur in many parts of the body, but those at the side of the neck and under the angle of the jaw seem to be more subject to swelling than those in other areas. Generally when the nodes enlarge and become painful it will be discovered that such enlargement is a by-product of some trouble affecting the mucous membranes of the nose, throat or ear.

For example, acute swellings are known to occur with acute tonsillitis, diphtheria, measles, scarlet fever, colds and so on. Any acute children's disease involving the mucous membranes of the breathing passages is almost sure to be accompanied by some swelling of the lymph glands. In some cases the acute disease of the mucous membrane may itself be slight and yet severe and marked swelling of the glands will occur.

In the acute cases, the glands on only one side are generally swollen, and if both sides are affected, then the glands of the one side will be worse than the glands of the other. Repeated acute attacks may produce chronic enlargement of the glands, with the nodes remaining swollen over long periods of time. Or, the neck glands may remain swollen as the result of chronic tonsillitis, enlargement of adenoid tissue, or chronic catarrh.

In the acute cases the glands may swell to the size of a large lima bean, or to the size of a walnut, or even to that of a small egg. The patient complains of the parts feeling hot of tenderness, and pain, while he says that when he feels with his fingers, he feels a lump or lumps. These local symptoms may be associated with fever.

The acute cases usually subside fairly rapidly. The best treatment in such cases is to put the patient to bed, give one or more plain warm water enemas a day, and to use moist applications around the throat. Young children usually obtain very quick results in reducing the swelling when the fast is used and it is generally necessary for them to fast for only a few days after which the lymph nodes will be emptied enough so that they will return completely to normal if a careful diet is then used. A fast on fruit juices should be tried, and if the patient says the fruit juice hurts the throat, the juice should be omitted and plain water given freely until such time as the juice may be swallowed in comfort.

When one of the glands forms an abscess, your physician will advise you whether a simple incision should be used to encourage quick drainage and prompt healing.

In children, decay of the teeth may produce an acute swelling of the neck glands. Prompt attention given to the teeth will take care of the inflammation of the glands.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

MY DAY

WASHINGTON—Last night I was talking to an older man in the Army Air Force who has just come back from India, China and Italy. It gives one courage to see people of one's own generation still able to render real service because of their training and the good physical condition which they still enjoy. This man is a vital, energetic person and I think he would have found staying out of the storm and stress of this period quite impossible. He makes his stories very vivid and full of understanding because he has a long and varied experience behind him.

He gave me permission to tell one particular story. When our army went into Naples, the Italians were happy to see them. As our boys marched in, a motherly Italian woman rushed up to her attic, where, for a whole month, she had hidden an American soldier. She had fed him what little she had and she gave him loving care. He had escaped from a German prison camp. He had obtained an Italian uniform and made friends with an Italian soldier, and together they travelled toward the part of Italy where he knew his army was fighting.

They reached Naples but it was still infested with Germans, and they decided that he had better part and that he must find a hiding place. Our boy met this woman's son, who took him home. She hid him. From day to day they expected the Americans to come in. They heard the steps of the German police patrol which passed the house night and day. The woman had four children, and their lives and hers were forfeit if the Germans ever found out that she harbored an American.

After the American army got in, our boy and my friend gathered what ration tickets they could find and went back to her laden with more food than she had seen for many days in gratitude for the hospitality. The whole family and the two American soldiers had a feast. The woman periodically threw her arms around the American boy and shed a few tears, tears of thanksgiving because he was safe. For she had come to look upon him almost as one of her own children.

I imagine that the Italians are an incorrigibly gay and peace-loving people. Mussolini has not made a permanent dent upon them. I hope they have the ability to demand and to carry through the type of government which will give them the things that make life worth living.

Doris Fleenon said yesterday that as our boys sank deep in Italian mud and endured rain day after day, they remarked: "Sunny Italy, huh? Italy certainly hasn't been all sun, politically or economically. Will the future bring her people and all the people of the world compensation in the way of justice and hope for what this generation of youth has gone through?"

Debunker

There seems to be a general idea that great artists have all done their best work when they were poor, starving and living in dark attics. This is all bunk, says Melvyn Hoffman in the pages of her "Sculpture Inside and Out."

Artists cannot do good work when hungry and cold, any more than a business man or anyone else can, she says. In fact, the world has lost much talent that could otherwise have been given to the world if the artists possessing these rare abilities had not been allowed to struggle against poverty and hunger to keep body and soul together.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERED

Just as soon as the baby can say words almost every parent begins to question tirelessly. "Where is your nose?" "Where are your eyes?" And as she questions she puts her finger on the small nose or closes the sparkling eyes until baby is ready to lift a hesitating finger of his own when the familiar words are spoken.

All of this is not only a means of helping baby to show-off when admiring relatives appear, but it has a far greater value to baby than just to appear smart.

It is right that baby should learn as early as possible all the parts of the body. And it is easy to accomplish this by naming them when the baby is dressed or bathed, when diapers are changed, when his fat, little abdomen or his smooth shoulders, or his toes are kissed.

The right word is no harder for the baby to learn than some contraction, or some made-up word, often employed to spare the parent the embarrassment of saying the right word. It is only the mother who thinks it harder and only she who is embarrassed. To the baby no one part of his body is any more embarrassing than any other part.

The second advantage is that when children have pains or aches they know in what part of the body they are located.

There will not be the confusion suffered by a parent whose child insisted he had a tummy-ache when subsequent examination discovered the pain to be in his ears.

Another mother hearing of this said: "I know my boy would know if he had an ear-ache. He knows every portion of his body intimately."

So, in addition to building up the child's knowledge of his dearest possession, his own body, one helps him to care for it by making it possible for him to locate the source of pain or aches.

Our leaflet, "Answering the Child's Questions About Babies", which may follow on the curiosity engendered by a discussion of the body, may be had upon request. Mail your request, together with a 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

War Jobs Prove Gals No Longer The Weaker Sex

WINNIPEG, Feb. 15.—(CP)—The weaker sex is no longer weak.

They have taken over men's jobs so successfully that foremen who once scoffed at women replacing men in essential industries now ruefully admit "They've got what it takes."

In the aircraft industry particularly they have disproved the oft-repeated theory that women are not mechanical. They service engines and air frames, do fabric doping and refinishing, and work in instrument, metal and electrical shops. They climb into cockpits and handle switches and throttles, verify oil and air pressures. They drive tractors and tow bars manoeuvring aircraft on and off the field. They steer gas tenders carrying 800 gallons of gas and can gas an aircraft in 2 1/2 minutes. No job is too heavy—wherever there's a man, there's a woman beside him.

Out at one of the largest air observer schools in Manitoba the civilian girls are called "beetles" because they crawl into everything. They are a cross-section of Canada. There's Dorothy Langford of Winnipeg, a former school teacher, whose only comment on her job is "It's a lot of fun." Cathie Rex of Vancouver, might have stepped out of the song, "Rosie the Riveter." Evelyn Nelson from a farm near Saskatoon, works in engine crew. Irene Bolton of Kingston, Ont., does electrical work and wiring.

The men are wonderful to them.

Someone said, "But, Fred, with both partners holding a five-card suit to the ace-king and each with a side king, there ought to be a game if they play it in the right spot."

Then Kaplan pulled out a pencil and wrote down today's hand. He gave North and South each a solid five-card suit with 150 honors, and a side king. He said, "Play it at no trump, and the opponents take the first six tricks. Play it at spades, the opponents take the first six tricks. Play it at hearts, the opponents take the first six tricks." Well, I guess he had something there.

Face Facts of Present, Post-War Living, Cautions Club Speaker

"The first requisite to wise progress from today's tragedies to tomorrow's hopes is to face the facts, to realize that never in the world's history has there really been global war of the terrible extent and cost in human suffering and destruction of the present war," said Dr. Charlotte Whitton, C.B.E., D.C.L., of Ottawa, in an address to the Women's Canadian Club of Edmonton at a luncheon Tuesday in the Macdonald hotel. Topic of Dr. Whitton's address was "What Do We Mean by Social Security?"

"It is real honesty, it is patriotism to hold out to our people the promise that suddenly, today and in the immediate tomorrow, life is going to be easier, richer, simpler because the world now lies broken in this loss and destruction?"

"Let us never take our eyes off the kind of world we trust we shall attain, but let us see steadily the world we live in, must live in, in these next few years and how we Canadians can move towards that greater day, yet meet present needs."

WHAT ARE NEEDS?

"What are these needs? What do the Canadian people want? First of all they want work—gainful occupation—the way the relief rolls melted and cases have moved off mothers' allowances are their own proof of the willingness of the great number of Canadians to provide for themselves of their own effort and resources."

"We cannot avoid some degree of unemployment, as we took back to peace. We have it now even. We simply cannot prevent people wearing out permanently or temporarily; we cannot prevent fathers from dying prematurely, though we can reduce unnecessary illness and death. We cannot take the risk out of living."

"To meet the actual needs of people—people old, broken, handicapped, dependent—to meet the needs of the victims of dislocation today and tomorrow, Canada's provisions for social assistance must immediately be strengthened."

"There is need continuously of deciding whether we should extend a good social utility or give some kind of a cash 'hand-out' that, no matter what you call it, is of the nature of a dole."

NOT ADEQUATE

"Yet other samples arise, where we have to decide between a social utility and social insurance. Our health care has developed widely as a social utility on one hand, and under private enterprise on the other. Neither nor both at present prove adequate. Should we not rather explore extending health services as a social utility for all, with provision at the same time, for freedom of all those who desire to do so to utilize private practice, putting on the insurance basis only cash aid in loss of income due to sickness?"

Dr. Whitton paid a high tribute to the charitable and benevolent agencies. Of income insurance, she said, it is the most suitable for Canada.

In answer to the question, "How much can Canadians put into their complete welfare planning program?" Dr. Whitton said: "They can put into it such portion of their national income as in the end, they choose to collect and redistribute in that way."

Concluding, she said: "We can have the kind and amount of social armament in Canada for which we are willing to sacrifice."

Dr. Whitton was introduced by Mrs. Chester Gainer, president of the Women's Canadian Club here. She is on a tour of Canada, speaking to Canadian clubs in various cities across the Dominion. She is a guest at the Macdonald hotel.

Others at the head table beside Dr. Whitton and Mrs. Gainer were: Mr. and Mrs. Reg T. Rose, Miss Lillian Thomson, Mrs. E. P. Wellwood, Mrs. H. W. Thom, and Mrs. J. Percy Page.

Sinclair, Dean of Agriculture at the University of Alberta, and Mrs. Sinclair, and the bridegroom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sangster of Rosebud, Alberta. Both attended the university here, Sub-Lt. Sangster graduating in 1941 with his B. Comm. degree. He is affiliated with the Phi Kappa Pi fraternity.

Miss Isobel Sinclair Is Married At St. Stephen's College Chapel

At a candle-lit ceremony in St. Stephen's College chapel, the marriage was solemnized Monday at 8 p.m. of Miss Isobel Evelyn Sinclair, daughter of Dr. R. D. Sinclair, Dean of Agriculture at the University of Alberta, and Mrs. Sinclair, and Sub-Lt. Bruce Sangster, R.C.N.

Entering the chapel on the arm of her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white crepe fashioned on slim fitted lines with a high round neckline and long close-fitting sleeves. Her fingertip length veil was caught to a halo cap of net. She carried a spray bouquet of yellow roses, and white freesia centered with an orchid.

Miss Betty Wilson was the bride's only attendant wearing a long torso frock of mauve crepe with the full slipper length skirt gathered at the hipline. Her tiny ruffled hat was of matching mauve net and she wore gold mitts. Her bouquet was of yellow daffodils.

Fit-Sgt. Hugh Dickson was best man and ushering guests to pews marked with nosegays of daffodils and white carnations in Valentine effect, were Lt. Wilbur Haugan and Lt. Gordon Lalain.

Miss Doris McWhirter played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Miss Audrey Fryer sang "Now I Know."

RECEPTION

The ceremony a reception to 60 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents at 8 University campus where Mrs. Sinclair and Mrs. Sangster received with the bridal party. Mrs. Sinclair wore a street-length frock of wedgewood blue, black accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses. The bridegroom's mother's gown was an afternoon model of brown and gold crepe with which she wore brown accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Miss Muriel Sangster, sister of the bridegroom, wore a smart ensemble of jet black with a corsage of deep red roses. The bridal table was set with a white hand-embroidered cloth and centered with a tiered wedding cake embedded in pink tulle. Clusters of carnations were placed on the tulle and tall white tapered completed the table decorations.

Powers is in charge of arrangements and those assisting in serving will be Mrs. H. Runnalls, Mrs. A. Leitch and Mrs. H. Dodge.

The Irish Canadian Society met at the home of Mrs. S. Hamilton recently. Plans were made to hold a card party and dance in the Masonic Temple on March 16. It was decided to donate $25 to the Prisoners-of-War Comforts fund, also to send more parcels of clothing to the children in the bombed areas in Belfast, North Ireland. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. C. Garrie.

The Chalmers United Ladies' Aid is holding a Valentine tea and sale of home cooking at the church on February 17, from 3 to 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Elsie Park Gowan, well known city author and dramatist, will be guest speaker when the C.C.F. Women's club entertains at tea Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. C. Butterworth. Mrs. Gowan's topic will be "The Woman's Angle on Social Security." Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Dr. Sinclair Gives Address

A guest meeting of the University Women's club was held on Saturday afternoon at the university. Mrs. E. W. S. Kane, the president, was in the chair.

Mrs. Kane introduced the speaker, Dr. R. D. Sinclair, Dean of Agriculture. She commented that it was the first time she had had the pleasure of introducing a native born Albertan as speaker. Dr. Sinclair is a graduate of this university and obtained his Master's degree from the University of Iowa, and his doctorate from the University of Aberdeen.

He had the honor of being one of the Canadian representatives at the United Nations Conference on Food and Agriculture held at Hot Springs, Virginia, last May and June. He gave an interesting account of this conference of representatives from 45 of the United Nations, and the plans that were outlined to organize production and distribution of food stuffs so as to relieve famine in all parts of the world.

The conference faced the facts that although two-thirds of the world's population spent their time raising food, one billion, four hundred million people have not enough of the right kinds of food for health and a decent life. They reviewed the circumstances of the planned scarcity of the last ten years even while hundreds of thousands of people were dying of hunger and diseases due to malnutrition.

WANT

Man, through science, now has the means of conquering want; he has a knowledge of the requirements of the human body; he has knowledge of scientific ways of producing food; he has evolved methods of refrigeration, de-hydration and compression to assist in shipping. The farmer has always wanted to know what was required of him in order to eliminate speculation and gambling on the market. In the post-war world the challenge to the knowledge and good will of the leaders will be to plan concerted international action to expand economy, free trade, raise the standard of living, and develop the means of purchase in the countries of the world.

Edmonton Girl, U. S. Officer Wed at Las Vegas, Nevada

Miss Nora Alice McGrath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McGrath of Edmonton, and Lt. Mark H. Sherrill, U.S.A.F., were married February 6 at a 6 p.m. mass at the Army Air Field in Las Vegas, Nevada. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Clifton Sherrill, of Santa Monica, Calif. Father Stevens, chaplain, performed the ceremony.

For her marriage the bride wore a two-piece dress of McArthur blue silk crepe, styled with a V-neckline and trimmed with stitched braiding on the jacket. Her hat was an off-the-face model of burgundy, trimmed with veiling, and she wore burgundy accessories. Her only ornament was a massadon ivory and gold nugget corsage, and she carried a crystal rosary, a gift of the bridegroom. A corsage of orchids completed her ensemble.

The bridegroom was attended by two fellow-officers, Capt. F. Duesing, New York, and Capt. T. E. Watson, Dallas, Texas.

After the ceremony a reception in the form of a supper party was held in the officers' club.

Leaving on their wedding trip, the bride changed to a three-piece suit of copen blue trimmed at the neckline with a trailing of shell pink organza. Her matching hat was trimmed with veiling and she wore navy accessories. They will visit the bridegroom's parents in Santa Monica and the bridegroom's brother, Lt. Byron Sherrill, at Long Beach, California.

Silverleaf Lard

Now in good supply and very reasonably priced, this fine cooking fat should be on every housewife's shelf

There was a time not so very long ago, when there seemed to be a real risk that we in Canada might find ourselves short of cooking fats. Fortunately, the efforts of Canadian farmers have averted that danger and now there is no reason why every kitchen in Canada should not be supplied with a pound or two of that wonderful standby, Silverleaf Lard.

Not only is lard a very valuable source of energy but it also contains other vital elements absolutely essential to health. Use lard in delicious deep-fry, for pan-frying and of course in baked goods. It is good—good for you—and we now have enough.

DEEP APPLE PIE
2 1/2 cups sifted pastry
7 tbsp. chilled butter
1 cup sugar
1 cup salt
Ice cold water
Mix and sift into a bowl the flour, salt and baking powder. Cut half of lard into these dry ingredients, to the size of wheat grains—then out in remainder of lard, to the size of small peas. Sprinkle with cold water, and mix with a fork, adding enough water to make a dough which will just form a ball that cleans easily from the bowl. Chill.

FOR THE FILLING:
Tart apples 1/2 teaspoon grated sugar, white or brown
2 tablespoons butter, if available
1 teaspoon grated Orange rind
Peel, core and slice apples. Mix sugar (amount depending upon tartness of apples), orange rind and nutmeg. Arrange apples and sugar mixture in alternate layers in a deep pie dish, dotting with butter. Moisten edges of dish. Roll out paste, slash and place over apples. Trim and crimp edges. Bake in a hot oven, 450° F., for 12 minutes, then reduce heat to 375° F., and bake until crust nicely browned, about 30 minutes.

Poor Rye Support On Chicago Market

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Selling by local traders uncovered a poorly supported rye market today and prices receded more than a cent from the day's highs. The reactionary trend in rye also spread to wheat and oats which earlier, like rye, were firm. Real selling pressure in the wheat pit was absent and the downturn came more from lack of buying interest, but while this was true of the early rye market, fairly general selling came from professional operators later in the session. Wheat finished 1/4 to 1/2 lower than the previous close.

Resident of the Westmount district of this city for the last 30 years, Mrs. Emily Russell Wallace, widow of the late William Wallace, died Monday at her home at 10728 127 street.

Well-known for her work in the Westmount Community League, she was also an active worker for the Westmount Presbyterian church, where she was a member of the choir and the Women's Missionary Society. She was well-known for her culinary talents, having won many prizes for her cooking at the Edmonton exhibitions, and she also won the gold medal for baking. She was also interested in flowers and won many prizes with displays at Edmonton horticultural exhibitions. Born in London, Eng., she came to Canada as a child and lived at Hamilton, Ont., until her marriage. Mrs. Wallace has no surviving relatives.

A funeral service will be held Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. from Foster and McGraw's funeral parlour. The Rev. J. MacBain Miller will officiate, assisted by the Rev. R. S. Faulk.

Building Products Limited Volume of Sales Maintained

Volume of sales of Building Products Limited for 1943 was well maintained, and reduced selling expenses, including advertising, contributed to a higher net profit prior to taxes. Final net profit after taxes was lower because the higher rates of taxes were in effect during the whole of 1943, but only for six months of 1942.

For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1943, net profits after income and excess profits taxes were $318,500.58, equal to 66 cents per share, as compared with $425,008.94, or 88 cents per share, in the preceding year. The foregoing figures do not include the refundable portion of such taxes, which has been calculated as $159,671.83 for 1943 as against $159,937.37 for 1942. Before taxes the net profit for 1943 amounted to $1,347,500.58 as compared with $1,063,008.94 for 1942, and Dominion income and excess profits taxes equalled $213 per share and $132 per share for the respective years.

Working capital as at December 31, 1943, was $1,952,920.30 as compared with $1,917,106.33 at December 31, 1942. During the year 1943 capital expenditures amounted to $98,435.15.

In the annual report to the shareholders, W. R. McNeil, president of Building Products Limited, comments that: "The total value of all construction contracts awarded dropped 27 per cent below the previous year's volume. Contributions to residences, however, held at substantially the same level as in 1942, and it is for this class of construction that products of your company have found their best market. This satisfactory showing in residential construction was attained in spite of shortages of materials, and wartime regulations which have permitted only the building of houses of extremely limited dimensions. Recently there has been some easing of these regulations, and all signs now point to a continued favorable trend in this particular type of construction. The class of products called for in current orders clearly indicates that a substantial part of the output of your mills is still being used for the repair and renovation of old buildings, especially those on the farms."

Lauds Precision Of Mass Raids Against Enemy

Thousand-plane raids on Berlin and other German cities result from a kind of team work such as the world has never before seen, declared Air Vice-Marshal G. R. Mowson, M.C., air officer commanding No. 4 training command, as he presented a national defence air ministry efficiency pennant to No. 2 Air Observer School here Tuesday.

Presentation was made by the air vice-marshal to Capt. W. R. "Wop" May, O.B.E., D.F.C., western manager for Canadian Airways Training Ltd., civilian company that operates No. 2 A.O.S.

The pennants are awarded by the Hon. C. G. Power, national minister of defence for air, to establishments that have distinguished records under the combined training plan.

Golden wings were presented to WO1. E. D. Sherman, staff pilot at No. 2 A.O.S. since May, 1943. The pilot completed 30 operational flights with the 108th bombing squadron in the Middle East year to joining the school staff here.

His home is at Fort Saskatchewan.

Efficiency pennant to No. 2 A.O.S. brings new distinction to air force training units here. No. 3 "M" Depot has won three "E" pennants and No. 4 I.T.S. has also an "E" to its credit.

Before the Magistrate

Daniel Turcott, who pleaded guilty before Magistrate A. L. Miller, K.C., to a breach of National Selective Service regulations, was fined $50 or three months. On a count of false pretences, he was sentenced to 30 days, with terms to run consecutively.

Said to have been a deserter from the army, Turcott admitted this was so. An army representative told the magistrate that the accused would probably be a liability to the service, when asked if the accused was wanted there.

Joseph Doran, charged with vagrancy, was found guilty and sentenced to three months at Fort Saskatchewan.

Hurman Schaferman pleaded guilty to intoxication but said a previous conviction of three months had been made "with exercise and not hard labor." Fifty dollars on two months, said Mr. Miller, "with exercise."

Member Urges Resources For Use of People

Urging development of Alberta resources for the benefit of the people, and condemning the present railway freight rate structure, H. E. DeBolt, Social Credit M.L.A. for Spirit River, spoke in the Legislature Monday afternoon during the Throne Speech debate.

The northern member said development of the resources could be effected by supporting the government treasury branch system. He said that the freight rate structure operates in a discriminatory way against this province.

Mr. DeBolt also declared that in his opinion from information he had received, it appears that an effort is being made to sabotage efforts to prove the commercial feasibility of the McMurray oil sands.

OPTIMISTIC ABOUT NORTH

He said there was room for many thousands of families to settle in the Peace River country, and spoke optimistically of the north country's future. Many Americans have said they intend to settle in the north when the war is over, Mr. DeBolt added.

Referring to a suggestion by James Walker, Independent M.L.A. for Warner, house leader of the Independent group, that full employment is a solution to economic conditions, the northern M.L.A. said he did not see how this could be accomplished without changing the economic system, or adoption of a balanced economy.

In speaking of the drilling of the Canadian oil well near the British Columbia border, he urged that this be brought to a proper test, and told the House that possibly 50 per cent of oil costs for farms could be eliminated if the well was brought into full production operation.

No matter what "camouflage" was used by old-line parties in Alberta, they would never again get control of affairs in this province, said Mr. DeBolt.

He told of highway possibilities in the north, and foresaw a highway that would run from Alaska to Asia, via a tunnel under the Bering Straits, as has been declared feasible by engineers, or by transporting automobiles by plane across the strait.

J. T. Broomfield, Independent Okotoks-High River, followed Mr. DeBolt in the debate, referring to oil and gas conservation legislation which was mentioned in the Speech from the Throne.

RAPS TREASURY BRANCHES

"Nearly sufficient revenue is received by this government from oil royalties to run the government's costly treasury branch system," he said.

"Probably that is a reason why royalty payments to the government were increased from 10 to 12 1/2 per cent. The treasury branches were running behind, so more money was required to keep them in a liquid position."

"It's just a case of taking it out of one hole, and putting it in another," Mr. Broomfield added.

The Okotoks member discussed the status of the smaller oil operators and leaseholders. "I see according to recent orders-in-council and in various ways they are trying to coax the small leaseholders back into the oil game, after making it next to impossible for them to carry on for the last two years," he said.

"Probably these recent steps to encourage the small operators back have been taken in order to meet the problems of declining production. I hope that in this they will be successful."

FEES DOUBLED

Lease rentals and filing fees have been doubled since the government came into power, and this was detrimental to the development of Alberta oil resources, said Mr. Broomfield. "I think Mr. Speaker, that instead of trying to discourage the little fellow through high taxation, he should be encouraged," he declared.

In the Middle Ages, sugar was sold only in apothecary shops on prescription of physician for medical purposes.

R.C.A.F. Pilots in Disguise

Not the best in the world, but these Italian farmer's clothes helped Flying Officer Eugene Derick, Dauphin, Man., Beaflight pilot, escape from an Italian prison camp.

Another Canadian who used the same trick with a peasant's clothes to get away from a Fascist camp was Flight-Sergeant Stanley Brook, R.C.A.F. pilot from Peterboro, Ont.

Navy Seeking Many Recruits In This City

With new additions in the way of modern fighting craft turned out each month from Canada's own shipyards and more up-to-date minute ships being transferred to the Dominion by the Royal Navy, the Royal Canadian Navy is offering increasingly better opportunities for service to young Canadians.

Every type of citizen from student to professor and from artisan to executive can serve in Canada's navy provided they are medically fit. Lt.-Cmdr. J. A. Dawson, commanding officer of the Edmonton naval establishment, said Monday.

Men are wanted immediately as follows: Ordinary seamen for gunnery, wireless telegraphists, visual signmen, torpedomen, all with good schooling; stokers first class with mechanical experience or holding engineers papers; motor mechanics with two or more years of garage experience; supply assistants and steward probationers, cooks and assistant cooks, writers with stenographic and accounting experience; shore patrol men with police experience, shipwrights, joiners and carpenters, joiners, cooperhsmiths, engineers and Diesel engineers.

Young men between 19 and 21 are eligible for shipwright's courses. These must have grade 10 schooling.

Electrical instrument makers, armament fitters, general electricians, machinists, linemen capable of handling 4,000 volt systems, telephone men with experience in commercial systems.

Blacksmiths who have served apprenticeships at C.P.R. or C.N.R. shops, telegraphists, postal sorters and financial clerks up to 45 years will be accepted.

Applicants should arrange an interview at once with the recruiting officer at H.M.C.S. Nonsuch, 9722 102 street. Those out of the city may obtain information by mail.

The recruiting office is open each week-day from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Appointments outside of these hours may be made by telephone or letter.

On Friday the Speaker read a letter of thanks from Lord Sempill for the courtesy extended, in which the writer discussed questions concerning monetary reform.

In speaking to his point of privilege Monday, Mr. MacLachlan said: "On Friday last, Mr. Speaker read a document from a member of the House of Lords. It was introduced under the assumption of expressing thanks for the courtesy extended to him, namely, a seat on the floor of the house at the opening of the session. But it went beyond that and contained matter which was debatable and contentious."

"First, I would like to point out that the privilege mentioned was not given by the assembly, but by the government, or some member of the government, with the consent of Mr. Speaker."

Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney-general, entered the discussion at this stage on a point of order. He said no member of the house could raise a question of privilege without stating its nature.

"I am stating it," Mr. MacLachlan replied.

Mr. Maynard went on to say that it was improper for any member, under the guise of a point of privilege, to censure the Speaker.

The question of privilege, he added, was not a matter for the house.

Mr. Maynard said that the document was laid on the table at the request of this honorable member. (Mr. MacLachlan) said Mr. Speaker.

He added the proper course of action was to put the matter on the order paper, so it could come before the house.

Again Out of Order Second Protest on Letter By Independents Rejected

A second move by Independent members of the Legislature, to voice protest at the reading of a letter from the Rt. Hon. Lord Sempill in the House last Friday, was ruled out of order by Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson at the beginning of Monday's sitting of the Legislature.

The Independents' first attempt to protest occurred Friday, when James Walker, M.L.A. for Warner, registered objections as to the contentious nature of Lord Sempill's letter.

At Monday's sitting, George MacLachlan, M.L.A. for Pembina, and Independent whip, rose to a point of privilege to voice a second protest and was ruled out of order.

The Speaker suggested that the matter be laid before the house through a notice of motion.

ATTENDED OPENING Lord Sempill, who visited this city last week in the course of duties as chairman of the overseas committee of the national war services budget board, was seated on the floor of the house when the session opened last Thursday. He was invited to do so by Mr. Speaker Dawson.

On Friday the Speaker read a letter of thanks from Lord Sempill for the courtesy extended, in which the writer discussed questions concerning monetary reform.

In speaking to his point of privilege Monday, Mr. MacLachlan said: "On Friday last, Mr. Speaker read a document from a member of the House of Lords. It was introduced under the assumption of expressing thanks for the courtesy extended to him, namely, a seat on the floor of the house at the opening of the session. But it went beyond that and contained matter which was debatable and contentious."

"First, I would like to point out that the privilege mentioned was not given by the assembly, but by the government, or some member of the government, with the consent of Mr. Speaker."

Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney-general, entered the discussion at this stage on a point of order. He said no member of the house could raise a question of privilege without stating its nature.

"I am stating it," Mr. MacLachlan replied.

Mr. Maynard went on to say that it was improper for any member, under the guise of a point of privilege, to censure the Speaker.

The question of privilege, he added, was not a matter for the house.

The document was laid on the table at the request of this honorable member. (Mr. MacLachlan) said Mr. Speaker.

He added the proper course of action was to put the matter on the order paper, so it could come before the house.

Council Enacts By-Law Banning Cattle in City

From and after Jan. 1, 1945 no permit will be issued for the keeping of cows, sheep, goats or hogs in Edmonton, except in respect of premises situated within the area of the city known as the "suburban zone," or in any area in the inner zone where there is a parcel of land exceeding five acres, open and unbuild, it was decided Monday night by city council, and the necessary bylaw to cover this decision was enacted.

In respect to the granting of a permit to keep animals in the inner zone on five acre lots, the medical health officer must be satisfied that the keeping of animals will not create unsanitary, obnoxious or annoying conditions, or any conditions of the nature of a nuisance to the residents in the vicinity.

PERMIT REQUIRED

The health bylaw was amended to provide that, except in the suburban zone, the keeping of cattle, goats, sheep or hogs is prohibited anywhere in the city, unless, and until a permit to do so has previously been issued by the medical officer of health in respect to the particular premises.

The amended bylaw sets the annual fee for each cow permit at $1, and for each goat at 50 cents. The fee shall be paid at the time of application for the permit, and thereafter on Jan. 1 in each year. Any permit granted will apply only to the premises specified in the permit and shall not be transferable.

The bylaw provides also that premises where cattle, sheep, goats or hogs are kept, shall at all times be maintained in a clean, sanitary and inoffensive condition, and so as not to be a nuisance or annoyance to residents in the vicinity.

TO CANCEL PERMITS

Whenever the medical officer of health ascertains that premises where cattle, sheep, goats or hogs are permitted to be kept are being maintained in an unclean, unsanitary or offensive condition, the owner will be notified and unless the condition is rectified within five days the permit shall be cancelled.

In the event of cancellation of any permit the person concerned shall forthwith cease to keep animals upon the premises; continuance of keeping the animals on the premises will make the owner subject to prosecution.

The bylaw provides also that no person shall keep, or permit to be kept, more than 12 fowl for domestic purposes in the one-family and two-family dwelling districts without special approval being granted by the city council.

It provides also that no person shall keep more than two head of cattle within any stable or pen or other enclosure within the city without a permit from the medical officer of health.

Air Lines Official Plans Tour North

With the scope of activity under his direction considerably extended following promotion from city to district traffic manager for Trans-Canada Air Lines in this area, D. S. D'Arcy McLeod plans to leave next week on an extended aerial tour of the far north.

A huge amount of business now being done by TCA in and out of Edmonton is the result of the great amount of war project development in the far north and the northwest.

It is in order to expedite the handling of passengers from the north to points elsewhere in Canada and in the U.S.A., that Mr. McLeod is making the tour north.

Much of this traffic is high priority, practically all air travelers being connected directly or indirectly with the war effort.

Mr. McLeod plans to confer with army transport officers at various points in addition to civilian air lines agents.

Premier Manning Explains Effects National Dividends On Canadian Economic Life

The purpose of a national dividend, and the effects of such a dividend upon the economic life of Canadians, were described by Premier Ernest Manning in an address delivered here Monday night. The just price proposal, to regulate the Canadian price structure, was also explained by the premier.

"Payments of national dividends would insure every Canadian family an increasing measure of economic security. They would insure security for the blind, for widows, for the disabled, security for children to obtain the full advantage of their education and security in the later years of their life," he said.

"In short, national dividends would at once stroke away with the cheese-paring and regulation-ridden systems of relief, mothers' allowances, family allowances and all the other patchwork bureaucratic so-called social security measures."

The just price proposal would automatically regulate the price structure to insure that a balance is always maintained between the total purchasing power and the total prices of goods on the market, and would prevent any inflationary rise in prices, said the premier.

The complete address follows: Those of you who listened to me last week will recall that I was dealing with the entirely unfounded and fallacious idea that has been spread around to the effect that the introduction of Social Credit would involve a lot of government control. I propose to go into this question more fully in order to give you a clear picture of just how a Social Credit system would operate. I want to tell you how it would affect you, whether you are a farmer, a manufacturer, a merchant or engaged in any other occupation.

May I once again stress two or three of the basic facts regarding Social Credit with which all should be familiar.

TRUE DEMOCRACY When we speak of a Social Credit system or a Social Credit order we mean the establishment in Canada of a properly functioning true democracy—both political and economic.

By true democracy we mean a form of social organization to give the people themselves supreme and complete control of their political and economic institutions in order that they may obtain the results they want from the management of their public affairs.

To Social Crediters it is absolutely fundamental that the state and all its institutions exist to serve the people—the individuals who collectively make up the nation.

This concept of true democracy provide them with a basic standard of living. However, as the national production increased, and as methods of mechanized production improved—making it possible to produce more and more, with less and less human labor—the amount of the national dividend would likewise increase.

EFFECT OF METHOD

Now let us consider what would be the effect of this method of distributing a portion of the national income. A person with a national dividend would have true economic independence—and that would give him economic freedom. Such a person would no longer be forced to accept unjust or unfair wage conditions simply from economic necessity. He would not be forced to accept degrading work under unwarranted conditions simply because his family was in danger of starving if he refused.

You can readily see that there would be some very effective and long overdue adjustments in economic conditions. Wages and salaries would be brought up to a level which would give individuals their fair share in the national wealth in proportion to the true value of their services. There would be an automatic adjustment in profits as a result of which those who obtained payment for their services by this means would get their fair, but only their fair share of the national wealth.

Let me direct your attention to another aspect of the importance and the effect of national dividends. Under our present finance-dominated economic system, the curse of money is the power which it gives a few persons over the lives of their fellow-men. It is this power that is responsible for the love of money which is the root of all evil. People become engrossed in the ruthless pursuit of acquiring dollars for the sake of being able to wield power over others.

National dividends would completely destroy the power of money in this respect. No person with the economic independence provided by a national dividend would be forced to dig another man's garden, to clean his shoes, to put up with his bullying—because of sheer economic necessity. The man with a million dollars would have no power to dominate the lives of his fellows through their dependence upon him and his money for their daily bread.

THE EFFECT

This will indicate the far-reaching effect of national dividends in giving people real economic freedom and placing in their hands the means to control every aspect of the economic life. Moreover, the payments of national dividends would provide every Canadian family an assured measure of economic security. If the breadwinner was temporarily unemployed, or was stricken with sickness, a national dividend would insure the economic security of his family and home. It would insure security for the blind, for widows, for the disabled—security for children to obtain the full advantages of their education and security in the later years of life. In short, national dividends would at once stroke away with the cheese-paring and regulation-ridden systems of relief, mothers' allowances, family allowances and all the other patchwork bureaucratic so-called security measures.

Another important and essential reform advocated by Social Crediters is that government expenditures should not be financed by continued borrowing from private corporations and by crushing taxation.

Instead the money required for government purposes should be issued by the national finance commission and taxation should be drastically reduced to the point of being used merely for withdrawing any surplus or redundant purchasing power. I do not need to elaborate on that, as I have gone into this question quite fully on previous occasions.

JUST PRICE

Finally we come to the just price proposal—which would be to the monetary system under Social Credit what the governor is to a power-driven machine. It would automatically regulate the price structure to insure that a balance

Veterans Perform Definite Duties

So long as the war lasts there is a very definite job for the war veteran, Col. F. C. Jamieson, V.D., told members of the North Edmonton Battalion, Veteran Volunteer Reserve, at a smoker held Monday night at headquarters.

The war is a long way from over yet, Col. Jamieson, who is a member of the provincial V.V.R. executive board, warned the veterans, and one of the duties of such an organization as the V.V.R., he said, is to guide public opinion and energize to even greater effort for the strenuous days immediately ahead.

Capt. P. W. Johnson, officer commanding the South Side Battalion, spoke along similar lines; both speakers urged members of the unit to "stay with the ship," in order to be organized and ready for anything, should the need arise. The affair was convened by J. H. Blackburn, commanding officer of "A" company. Harold Cruickshank was in charge of arrangements, and J. Gordon Butler, officer commanding the North Side Battalion, was chairman.

In charge of entertainment was Sgt.-Maj. Jack Jones; at the piano was Dennis Clayton, and Capt. J. L. Irwin, adjutant of the South Side Battalion, also entertained with piano selections. Refreshments were served.

Killed "On Hunt"

BROOKINGS, S.D., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Bert Gednalske, Brookings fur dealer, was killed when his light plane stalled and crashed while he was using it Sunday in a fox hunt.

is always maintained between total purchasing power and the total prices of goods on the market—and would prevent any inflationary rise in prices.

Retail merchants would be authorized to sell their goods at a discount and, provided they adhered to an agreed fair ratio of profit on their sales, the balance of the price would be made good by means of subsidies—on the same principle as that which is being employed today in Canada and Great Britain—but without the red tape and regimentation.

Now let us consider some of the effects of these reform measures.

If you are a farmer, you would find yourself in the happy position of being able to obtain proper credit facilities to finance your operations. You would be assured stable market for your goods at remunerative prices, and you would enjoy the security of tenure on your land to which you are entitled.

If you are a manufacturer you would likewise find that, instead of having to fight—for markets, often getting uneconomic prices for the goods turned out by your firm, you would have a market clamoring for them—provided they are what people want.

EXPANDING SALES

If you are a merchant, likewise you would find your sales expanding, with the necessary monetary facilities made available to help you to keep pace with the growing demand. The only restriction imposed upon you would be that you limit your rate of profit to a fair percentage, if you wished to reap the benefit of the increased sales which would result from selling your goods at the just price.

As taxpayers you would find your taxes drastically reduced, and on the lower incomes probably abolished altogether.

The people as a whole would be able to produce all they required and they would have adequate purchasing power to enable them to buy their total production. The people themselves would thus have the means of controlling the volume and the nature of their production, their wage conditions and all aspects of their economic life. Burdensome debt and taxation would become things of the past. Economic democracy would be a fact and not a vague theory.

And all this would be achieved without government controls, regulations and the bureaucratic violation of personal freedom involved in state socialism or the form of financial fascism with which we are afflicted today.

Property rights would be safeguarded. Individual enterprise and personal initiative would flourish. Their abuses would be eliminated.

THE QUESTION

Now let me ask you bluntly. Is that the kind of social order you want? If it is, then it is within your power to get it. But you will not get it merely by holding up your hand for it. The men who have control of our national institutions have other plans for you. They are determined that you are to become more and more the slaves of a servile state. At the present time they are hurrying us all to that fate without serious opposition.

If you, the people of Canada, want the freedom of the kind of social order which I have outlined to you, then you must make the effort, and the sacrifice necessary in order to win it for yourselves.

Early in April the first Social Credit national convention will be held in Toronto. You should make your plans now to send a delegate to that convention. It will mean effort and expense to do this—but I ask you to weigh this against what it means to you, to the boys fighting for you overseas, to the future of Canada.

If you have not done so yet, write for full particulars of the convention to: The Convention Secretary, Box 72, Edmonton, Alberta. Also do not hesitate to write to the same address for any further information about Social Credit which you may wish to have.
